GOV. SMITH IS HEARING FINAL ARGUMENTS ON DRY REPEAL

New York Executive Said to Be Keeping Open Mind
While Forces For and Against State Enforcement
Bring Fight to Close; Many Women Take Part.

POLITICAL ASPECTS OF THE SITUATION

Friends Divided in Advice as to Course to Pursue on Question to Further His Presidential Aspirations; Action Before Sunday.

By the Associated Press.
ALBANY, N. Y., May 31.—Facing a crowd, mostly women, that packed the assembly chamber, Gov. Smith today opened a public hearing on the question of signing or vetoing
the Cullen bill for repeal of the Mullan-Gage State prohibition enforcement act.

His decision has been stressed as of national importance to the future of prohibition enforcement and as one on which his chances of a Democratic presidential nomination in 1924 may hang. The Governor disdained the speaker's platform and seated himself at a table on the floor.

Woodruff Protested.
Mrs. Woodruff then introduced William H. Anderson, State superintendent of the Antisaloon League,
who said:

"I desire to make a formal statement of this measure in behalf of the 4000 to 5000 churches in New York State represented by the Antisaloon League, many of which have spoken directly for themselves."

Hayward then began his argument.

Enforcement Difficulties.
Palmer Canfield, State Prohibition
Director described the difficulties he expected to encounter if the Mullan-Gage act were repealed, telling how it would be impossible for the small force of Federal agents available to cover the huge territory of New York State.

"Aided by State forces," he said,
the Government has been able to cut consumption of liquor in New York city from 15,000,000 to 1,000,000 gallons a year.

Greville S. Poland, State counsel for the Anti-Saloon League, presented figures on the success of prohibition after which Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsel of the Anti-Saloon League was introduced to close for the day.

Naturally the drys got the jump
on the opponents, beginning to talk the assembly chamber, where the public hearing on the repeal was to be held, more than four hours before the time set for the Governor's appearance.

Preponderantly of the feminine sex, the opponents of repeal rushed for the front seats and got most of them, sitting patiently through the forenoon hours while Gov. Smith bused himself with other affairs.
Every dry was decorated with a white badge bearing in blue letters
the slogan "For law against repeal."

W. B. Wheeler, however,

was not to be outdone, a wet adherent soon put in his appearance with a huge banner bearing the legend:
"When the Anti-Saloon League comes down a preaching that drinking is sinful."

"I'll wager the rascals a crown
they always preach best with a skin-fu."

The banner's life was short, however, for after a protest of Miss Alice Carpenter, head of the Molly Pitcher Club, which is opposed to prohibition, and Assemblyman Louis A. Cu-villier, author of the repeal bill, it was banished from the hall amid applause and jeers.

Line-Up of Contending Forces.
Mrs. Ida B. Sanborn Woodruff, of Brooklyn, N. Y., the State's first woman member of the assembly,
who had been selected by the drys
as their floor leader, announced that their campaign would be as follows:
Gov. Hayward Opens Argument Against Repeal.

The argument was general when opposition to the repeal of the Mullan-Gage law was expressed by Col. William Hayward, United States District Attorney for the Southern District.

Asserting that he appeared without the knowledge of President Harding or Attorney General Daugherty, he declared that "the repeal of the Mullan-Gage act would be but a gesture, futile so far as legislating law is concerned, but vicious in that it would encourage the bootlegger."

DESPERADO SLAIN BY POSSEMEN IN CANADIAN WOODS

Leo Rogers, Trapped Repairing Engine of Motor Boat, Shot Before He Could Raise Rifle to Shoulder.

CLIPPINGS OF EXPLOITS FOUND IN POCKETS

Killed Two Policemen and Terrorized North Bay, Ontario, After Escaping From Court With Fake Pistol.

By the Associated Press.
NORTH BAY, Ont., May 31.—
After two weeks of terror, this town today stood free of the menace of Leo Rogers, 21-year-old desperado, who last night fell before the bullets of a posse that had sought him since May 16, when he escaped from court, flourishing a cardboard pistol.

Two men were killed and several wounded by the youth before he was brought down by possemen as he was washing his hands in Lake Nipissing.
The desperado emerged from the bush about eight miles from Nipissing late yesterday afternoon, long enough to be brought down by a bullet fired by Inspector Storey, whose party with several other groups had been hunting Rogers
since his escape.

Climax to Dramatic Hunt.
The killing of Rogers came as the climax to one of the most dramatic man hunts this territory has ever experienced. He shot Detective Fred Lefebvre shortly after his sensational escape and yesterday sent a bullet through the heart of Sergeant John Lequhart, of the provincial police, a member of the party that surprised the young man in his father's home.

On various occasions Rogers has threatened to kill North Bay's police chief and the Judge before whom he was being tried on a minor offense at the time of his escape. The population here is a state of terror during the time he was at large.

The day after Rogers escaped from court he telephoned North Bay authorities that they could find him at a certain spot near here. A posse of about 20 men, headed by the police chief and the Judge, followed the stable Lefebvre, in the lead, was killed. The desperado disappeared in the underbrush.

For days he was trailed and several possums were wounded when posses apparently had rined him.
Early yesterday watchers saw a youth sink into the home of the father of the desperado.

Found Trail at Daylight.
The house was surrounded and the posse leaders entered. They were met by a fusillade of shots, and Lequhart fell.

Although the house was surrounded, Rogers made his way through the cordon and again escaped into the woods. The possemen found his trail at daylight and came upon him at nightfall.

The report brings information that Rogers circled through the business section of North Bay in making his escape from the hut where he killed the policeman and broke into a hardware store in a futile search for ammunition for his pistols. Frightened away from the store he next visited a garage and attempted to start a disabled motor car. From there he ran to the lake front where he found the skiff in which he crossed to the farm of Allen Johnson, who called a constable.

Inspector Moore sent his entire force after the man killer. Storey's party traveled by automobile while another party headed down the lake in a motor boat. It was about 5 p. m. when the possemen neared the farm and hid behind trees and clumps of bushes. Stealthily they crept nearer their victim until, with glint glasses, they could discern his features.

Raised Rifle to Shoulder.
Rogers had beached his boat and was tinkering with its tiny engine.
Several times he dipped his hands into the water to wash off blood that dripped from his smeared face.

Sure of their prey, members of the posse raised a mighty yell and opened fire. Rogers looked up startled, for apparently he had thought himself safe. He grasped his rifle, raised it to his shoulder as the bullets fell about him, but he crumpled before he could pull the trigger.

Rogers apparently had been interested in the excitement which his bravado escapades had caused, for in his pockets were found newspaper clippings telling of his various exploits and plans for his capture.

He also had a large package of food and a pair of heavy rubber boots. The motorboat in which he crossed the lake was now stolen from a boat house owned by Mayor Ferguson and Judge Leahy.

RELEASE OF BRIGANDS' CAPTIVES LIKELY SOON

Freeing of Major Allen and Englishman Taken as Favorable Indication.

By the Associated Press.
TIENTSIN, May 31.—Hope for the speedy release of all the foreign captives held by the bandits of Paozuku Mountain brightened almost to assurance today with the news that Maj. Robert A. Allen, U. S. A., and
W. Smith of Manchester, England, had been freed unconditionally, and that the prisoners remaining in the imprisoned at the summit of the mountain, Maj. Roland W. Finger, U. S. A., and Lee Solomon, American, had been moved to a lower level.

A message from Tsao Chwang said that "negotiations are going on favorably."

The release of Allen and Smith left 12 foreign captives.
In a letter to the Associated Press,
written before he was moved down from the summit, Maj. Finger expressed gratitude that his parents had been kept informed of his situation.

"While we can see for 60 miles around," he wrote, "we hear only what little gossip percolates from the temples where the other foreigners are stationed. None of the bandit chiefs come to the top. We three are kept busy, correspondence taking a substantial part of the day.
We are constantly improving the appearance and utility of the 'garden.' Solomon cooks on a charcoal stove; Allen and I alternate at dis-washing, which we view as a danger because of the water-borne diseases.

With plenty of food and comfortable coin, we cannot help comparing our lot with that of the Chinese children captive here. One kiddie's ribs are sticking out as in a famine picture. Every time we try to give them food, the bandits snatch
it away. All the children are filthy.
When we first came up they were moribund, but a few clandestine hard-boiled eggs have livened them up and several are constantly hanging around waiting for a chance to do little favors for me, with the idea of getting candy, a potato or an egg as reward. We are told that the custom is to hold such kiddies for years, waiting for their folks to earn as much as $5000 each. If the ransom is not forthcoming, the youngster is brought up as a bandit."

Finger said he was preparing a detailed narrative of his experiences for the American press.

INITIATION HELD BY KU KLUX KLAN NEAR CREVE COEUR LAKE

Guards Stationed About Tract Turn Back All Persons Without Cards; Illuminated Crosses Set Up.

SEVERAL HUNDRED CANDIDATES INITIATED

Besides Ceremonial, Impromptu Meeting Is Held for Dissemination of Propaganda to Picnickers.

The Ku Klux Klan conducted two open-air meetings in a large unincorporated tract of land half a mile north of the end of the Creve Coeur Lake street car line last night. One was a spectacular ceremonial for initiation of several hundred candidates; the other an impromptu affair for dissemination of Klan propaganda to a crowd of picnickers from the lake and others who had gathered to witness the proceedings from a distance.

The tract of land, owned by the United Railways, in connection with the other holdings at Creve Coeur Lake, which include the amusement park, slopes from the south, where the entrance to the Klan ceremonial was established, to a ravine at the north.

Two illuminated crosses had been placed near the entrance and another, with an American flag for a background, was placed half-way down the hill where the klanmen gathered. The crosses appeared to be about 15 feet high.

A double line of white-robed, hooded klanmen were stationed around the tract as guards. At the south side the outer line was in close formation, the klanmen being about two or three feet apart. At points distant from the entrance they were about 20 or 30 feet apart. The inner line, half way between the edge of the tract and the point where the ceremonial was conducted, was of more open formation, guards being about 30 feet apart.

Searchlights Used. The searchlights had been placed at advantageous points on the top of the hill and were played over the entire tract during the proceedings. The searchlights might see if intruders attempted to enter. A bright full moon made the service of the searchlights unnecessary.

Many persons motoring out Olive street road were attracted to the meeting by signs about two feet square placed on poles at road intersections indicating the direction to the meeting. On the signs was the figure of a klanman in full regalia, pointing the direction. The signs contained the words, "To Open Air Meeting of the Ku Klux Klan."

Admission by Card. Only persons having cards were admitted within the double line of guards. A Post-Dispatch reporter who knew his identity to guards was refused permission to witness the ceremonial, hence it was not possible for him to determine the number of klanmen participating. However, from the spectators' place, he saw several hundred persons in Klan regalia, on guard and participating in the initiation, besides several hundred candidates in civilian clothing.

The principal speaker at the ceremonial gave what he regarded as an inspirational address divided into three general topics:

"The going is good," now—in one of the attractive, serviceable cars offered for sale over in the classified "Automobiles" columns. The prices make ownership easy; the service they will render will make ownership a pleasure.

The Perfect Market-Place

FAMILIAR FIGURE IN CITY POLITICS, WHO IS DEAD

CHARLES E. MOHRSTADT.

Urging adherence to the Constitution of the United States and the fundamental principles of this Government; condemnation of immigration and immigrants and condemnation of the Catholic Church.

Gives Immigration Figures. The speaker's references to the Constitution and Government of the United States were along the lines of the conventional Memorial Day address. In expressing opposition to immigration, the speaker gave many figures showing how the volume of immigration has increased in recent years. He said the Klan should exert its influence to curtail immigration.

In reference to the Catholic Church he said that the Pope and College of Cardinals have a working agreement to perpetuate their own circle in power. He said the opposition of Catholic priests in this country to marriages between Catholics and non-Catholics was in spirit, a violation of American fundamentals of government.

President Obregon of Mexico was characterized by the speaker as the greatest man the world has produced in a hundred years, because he ordered Mr. Ernesto Pilioli, the Apostolic Delegate in Mexico, to leave the country for participating in an outdoor religious ceremony held at Cerro de Cubille, in alleged violation of the Mexican Constitution. The speaker made the unqualified declaration that the Apostolic Delegate in Mexico, Mr. Pilioli, was a traitor to his country and should be ordered from the country.

Minister Speaks. As the ceremonial were in progress the Rev. C. C. Crawford, pastor of the Fourth Christian Church, 1501 Penrose street, in Klan attire, spoke to several hundred persons gathered outside the line of guards. He has admitted membership in the Klan and has on several occasions preached Klan doctrines from his pulpit. He removed his hood while speaking.

He pictured the Klan as an organization formed to place Americans in charge of affairs in America. He also condemned immigration, using as an example the establishment of Greek restaurants in recent years. He said he hoped the time would come when no restaurants in this country are operated by Greeks.

The Rev. Mr. Crawford referred to the fact that Gov. Smith of New York, who on May 23 signed a bill unmasking the Klan by providing that within 10 days every Klan in the State must file with the Secretary of State the names and addresses of all members, as well as copies of the laws and rules of the organization, has been mentioned as a possible presidential candidate.

He said that at the next presidential election and will vote against Gov. Smith if he is a candidate. Mr. Crawford said candidates are being taken into the Klan at an average of 500 a week.

Attitude Toward Jews. He said the Klan is not opposed to Catholics, Jews or negroes as individuals. Jews are barred from membership in the Klan, he added.

Newspapers are numbered among the enemies of the Klan, he said. He declared that "thin-skulled" editors denounce the Klan editorially because they do not understand its principles. He mentioned the Catholic church briefly, saying the Klan is not opposed to Catholics as individuals, but is opposing the principles of their religion. He called attention to the fact that former Judge Henry S. Priest is opposed to the Klan and denounced, in general terms, Priest's activities in behalf of the Missouri Klan. Every six months the Klan is named in honor of Frank N. Meyer, who lost his life while hunting for new recruits in China.

SHERIFF MOHRSTADT, ILL 3 MONTHS, DIES

Republican Politician and Holder of Several Offices Succumbs to Pernicious Anemia.

The body of Sheriff Charles E. Mohrstadt, who died last night at his home, 4173 Cleveland avenue, from pernicious anemia with which he had been ill for three months, lies in state at a private chapel at 2213 South Grand boulevard, where funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Saturday.

Sheriff Mohrstadt, in health, was a striking figure—more than 5 feet tall, with gray hair and weighing 250 pounds. He was 55 years old, and, prior to his breakdown, which occurred in the latter part of February, he had never suffered a serious illness.

Since Feb. 26 he had undergone eight blood transfusions in an effort to maintain his strength.

Held Other Public Offices. He was born in St. Louis and was educated in the public schools. He had been Sheriff since January, 1921, and before that was City Marshal for two terms. In 1911 he was elected to represent the Thirtieth Ward in the House of Delegates, and while in that office was credited with bringing about the improvement of Dakota Park, which for many years had been a public refuse dump.

Three weeks ago Sheriff Mohrstadt sent a letter to Mayor Kiel requesting that, in the event of his death, his brother, Oscar Mohrstadt, now Chief Deputy Sheriff, be appointed as his successor. Although, at that time, he was hopeful of recovery, he was actuated in making the request as a precaution by the fact that the Sheriff's office is not usually remunerative until the last two years of any term, and that during the first two years the Sheriff expends in upkeep as much as or more than he yields.

Requested as Successor. If his brother should be appointed, he explained, his wife would have the benefit of the fees when they do begin to come in. The fees usually net about $10,000 a year. Mayor Kiel, in referring the matter to City Counselor, signified his willingness to help carry it out.

Sheriff Mohrstadt is survived by his widow, Mrs. Emma Powell Mohrstadt; three children, Mrs. Edna Kuehn, Mrs. John Prentiss and Miss Vera Mohrstadt; a sister, Mrs. Theodore Wuthenow, and three brothers, Emil C., Adolph C. and Oscar F. Mohrstadt.

GERMAN SHIPS TO MAKE PACIFIC PORTS OF SOUTH AMERICA

Service Includes Having One Vessel Go Through Panama Canal Every 10 Days.

HAMBURG, May 31.—Regular shipping service between Germany and the western coasts of Central and South America is provided for in an agreement concluded by all the German lines interested in the traffic.

The plan is to have one ship go through the Panama Canal every 10 days by way of Bremen, Rotterdam, and Antwerp to western ports in South America. Every six months one ship is to go through the Strait of Magellan to western South American harbors by way of the same intermediate steps in Europe.

In addition to this schedule, it is intended to send one ship through the Panama Canal every month to Pacific ports of Central America.

Smith Hearing Arguments on Dry Repeal Bill

It would invite into the State the many lecture, sale and transportation of the worst kind of poisonous liquors.

"The Culliver act (the repeal bill)" he continued, "is no lawful charter for beer, but an outlaw charter for bootlegging with its three hand mauls, perjury, forgery and bribery; three heinous, detestable and dangerous crimes, the perpetration of which may deprive an innocent man or woman of life, liberty or good name, and yet everyone who buys from a bootlegger must necessarily have induced some person to become a felon and to commit one or all of these crimes. It would also withdraw the State inhibition against that ancient enemy of mankind—the intoxicating liquor traffic."

Enforcement Machinery. "I need not point out that the Federal amendments and the national and the state prohibition acts are the culmination of a century of struggle, experiment and thought on the liquor question. Before national prohibition 22 sovereign states of the Union had gone dry, acting independently. All but one state have since enacted codes to assist the Federal Government.

"The question today is whether the great Empire State, having put its hand to the plow, will now turn back. "It seems to me that repeal would be serving notice, not only to the police and other officers of this State, but to all of the people, that we were at least affirmatively disinterested in the enforcement of the Federal law. "The machinery for Federal enforcement in this State consists of about one dozen judges, a half dozen United States commissioners and about 200 Federal prohibition agents. The machinery of the State, which it is proposed to neutralize in the great war for law enforcement, consists of 26 judges besides the magistrates, 250 State constables, 62 sheriffs with all their deputies, and 12,000 police in the City of New York alone. To suddenly withdraw the support of the State of New York from its courts and peace officers, would take us completely by surprise and leave us absolutely overwhelmed.

Letter From Gompers. Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, in a letter presented at the hearing urged approval of the repeal and questioned the contention of opponents that it would "bring on a conflict between our Federal Government and the State of New York."

"No single act could be so potential in securing an early reasonable modification of the Volstead enforcement act," said Gompers, "as your giving your unqualified approval to the repeal of the Mullan-Gage law, and I join with the myriads of men and women of our state and our country in appealing to you to give that bill your approval."

The letter, which was presented by James P. Holland, president of the New York State Federation of Labor, reviewed the federation's declaration on the Volstead act and cited "analogous situations" under Article IV of the Constitution in attempts to enforce the fugitive slave law, and also that New York's act "co-operating with the Federal Government in the suppression of regulation" of the opium and narcotic trade "has since been repealed."

Duty of Enforcement. "If you shall approve the repealing bill," the labor leader declared, "the chief duty for the enforcement of the Volstead act will rest upon the Federal Government. There is no presidential nomination on a platform."

Other counselors, however, argued to have told him that his renunciation of the Volstead act would do is to veto the repeal bill on the ground that to wipe out the Mullan-Gage act would be to expose the State of New York to the eighteenth amendment. Once having taken a stand for "law and order," these counselors argued, the Governor would be in a good strategic position to make a bid for the presidential nomination on a platform.

AUTO FATALITY MARKS BARRACKS PILGRIMAGE

Wreath in Machine Obstructs View and Ex-Marine's Car Kills Old Man.

Jesse A. Hall, a former member of the Fifth Regiment of the Marine Corps, was driving yesterday afternoon to Jefferson Barracks to place a wreath on a statue. The wreath, which was five feet high and three feet wide, was in the front of the automobile, and partly obscured the view, Hall said.

At Eichelberger street and Broadway, Simon Hanepin, 73 years old, of 5052 Dewey avenue, also on his way to Jefferson Barracks to attend the Memorial day exercises, stopped in front of the automobile, Hall said, from behind a line of other cars. Hanepin was knocked down and died last night at Alexian Brothers' Hospital.

Hall's account of the accident was corroborated by Jacob Karchner of 747 Bayard avenue, chairman of the Marine Corps Club, who was riding with Hall. The latter, who is a vocational student, and who was wounded at Belleau Wood, was arrested and ordered held for the coroner.

PLAIN, WARM CLOTHING WANTED FOR NEAR EAST RELIEF

In answer to questions as to what sort of clothing is wanted in the Near East Relief Association's annual campaign for old clothing for indigent persons in Asia Minor, Louis Flank, director in charge, explained that "any plain, warm clothing, shoes or blankets in which there is still some wear," will do.

"Laces, silks, veils, chiffons, evening clothes, silk stockings and straw hats obviously have no place or use amid such scenes of misery and want," he said.

The old clothing is collected by laundry drivers through co-operation with the laundries here, and brought in to their offices. The relief association gets it, bales it and ships it to Near East countries, to be worn by persons to whom American "rummage" is first-class apparel.

40 Killed in Recent Disturbances, Says Berlin Paper's Correspondent.

BERLIN, May 31.—Forty persons were killed during the recent disturbances in the Ruhr, and at least 300 wounded are still receiving hospital treatment, according to the Essen correspondent of the Vossische Zeitung. Work has been resumed in most of the coal pits, he adds, but says the men at nine of the mines are still on strike.

Meanwhile the Governor is closely keeping his own counsel, asserting he has not made up his mind and will not make it up until he has weighed today's arguments.

SUPREME COURT STUDY OF RAIL MERGER URGED

Department of Justice Files Brief at St. Paul in Southern Pacific Case.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, May 31.—Further consideration by the Supreme Court of the Southern Pacific-Central Pacific railroad merger was suggested by the Department of Justice in a brief filed today at St. Paul, Minn., before the Federal Circuit Court.

In view of the conflict between the Supreme Court's decision ordering the Southern Pacific to release its hold on the Central Pacific, and a later Interstate Commerce Commission order permitting the combination to continue on the ground of public interest, the Government suggested that the highest court could give no consideration to the whole matter.

The brief presented at St. Paul by Solicitor-General Beck and made public here argued that, although the Interstate Commerce Commission was without power under the transportation act to overrule the Supreme Court decision and thus to an extent nullify the Sherman anti-trust laws, continuance of the railroad merger, nevertheless, might be wise.

Contains Constructive Features. The Commerce Commission's order for the continued lease of the Central Pacific by the Southern Pacific, the Government's brief declared, "contains many constructive features of undoubted value."

"It may be true that the practical wisdom of that order is vindicated by the very general satisfaction with which it has been apparently received in the great section of the country through which the railroads pass. Upon the wisdom of the commission's order we express no opinion. If it has the legal power to substitute its judgment as to what the interests of that section and of the entire nation require for the judgment of the Supreme Court, then we do not question in this proceeding the constructive value of its order."

I may well be that the settlement proposed by the commission which has at least for the time being harmonized the long-standing differences of great transcontinental carriers, will better subserve the public interests than the absolute divorce which the Supreme Court enforcing the Sherman law, has decreed.

"The question of power still remains and that question involves the question of the true will of Congress."

Court's Judgment Involved. The Government's brief told the Circuit Court, however, that if it felt at liberty to proceed without further reference to the Supreme Court, it should enter a decree giving effect to the previous Circuit Court order requiring the Southern Pacific to divest itself of all leases or interest in the Central Pacific.

MAN SHOT FATALLY IN PARK

Kansas Citizen Is Believed to Have Resisted Highwaymen.

KANSAS CITY, Kan., May 31.—George R. Cole, 35 years old, was found fatally wounded in a park near Bethany Hospital here late last night. He died soon afterward in the hospital, where it was reported that two revolver shots had been heard, followed by a man's scream. Cole's pockets were empty and turned inside out, indicating he may have resisted robbery.

Persons who were near the park told the police they saw two men run from it immediately after the shots were heard. Cole was a solicitor for the Kansas City Star. He is survived by a widow and five children.

The Circuit Court was told that the proceedings concern the integrity of the Supreme Court's judgment as well as the power of the Interstate Commerce Commission in administration of the transportation act.

"If in the enforcement of this famous rule of public policy," the Government's brief declared, "the action of the courts is subject to the revision of the Interstate Commerce Commission, then the Sherman anti-trust law, so far as the regulation of interstate transportation is concerned, has largely lost its efficacy, and there would seem to be little use in the future of any effort by the Government to enforce its provisions in the judicial department of the Government when under the interpretation sought to be given the transportation, the real court of last resort is an administrative commission."

"It may be that Congress intended such a radical departure in a policy to which it has now tenaciously adhered for nearly thirty years and it may also possibly be an act of wisdom to transfer the whole question of 'permissible monopolies or restraints of trade in interstate transportation from the rigid enforcement of the Sherman anti-trust law to the more elastic discretion of an administrative tribunal."

"The Government, however, can not assent to this view until the judiciary, as the final interpreter of the will of Congress, shall so declare."

RECEIVER NAMED FOR BIG NEW YORK BROKERAGE HOUSE

Jones & Baker, Largest Concern Connected With the Curb Market, Affected by Involuntary Action.

FIRM NOT INSOLVENT;
STATEMENT ASSERTS

Declaration Made After Action That It Is Hoped House Will Be Able to Pay Hundred Cents on Dollar.

NEW YORK, May 31.—An involuntary petition in bankruptcy
was filed today against Jones & Baker,
the largest brokerage house connected with the New York curb market, with branches in all parts of the country.

The curb market suspended the firm upon notification that Alfred
C. Cox Jr. had been appointed receiver by Federal Judge Goddard under $10,000 bond.

The petition for receiver stated that the firm had more than 9000
customers, and that it should be carrying at least $1,000,000 worth of securities for the account of these customers. The greatest part of these, it was said, was believed to have been repaid with banking institutions.

William R. Jones and Jackson B.
Baker composed the firm, which has offices on Broad street. The petition was filed by lawyers representing three creditors—Joseph M. Williams, Clyde W. Pope and Robert S.
Dodge—with claims totaling slightly more than $3000.

The firm issued a statement asserting it was not insolvent, and expressed hope that prompt liquidation of assets would realize 100 cents on the dollar for their customers.

Following announcement of the suspension there was a substantial volume of "under the rule" transactions on the curb. These included sales of Gilliland Oil, Cities Service, Bakers Shares, Atlantic Lobos, Maracabo, and a number of issues ranging below $1 a share.

Heavy Trading in Oil Stocks.
In the heavy trading in oil stocks which developed this afternoon there was strong selling of Standard Oil of New York, Kansas, Indiana, and Ohio. The shares declined the price and showed little change.

It was believed much of the selling pressure, particularly on independent oils listed on the New York Stock Exchange, originated from the liquidation of accounts held for Jones &
Baker.

President Curtis of the New York market issued a statement in which he disclosed that Jones &
Baker had appeared before the law committee of the exchange on Tuesday and had been summoned again
this morning when he was "advised that accounts acting for the committee would proceed to examine his books this afternoon."

Statement by Concern.
The firm's statement follows:
"A petition in involuntary bankruptcy has been filed against our firm today and Alfred C. Cox Jr. was appointed receiver by Judge Henry W. Goddard. The petition contains allegations that we are insolvent. Such is not the fact. We believe that with careful and prompt liquidation of our assets none of our customers will suffer any loss and that we will pay 100 cents on the dollar."

"We sincerely hope that our customers and creditors will defer action until receipt of a report of the result of a complete audit of the business to be immediately made and until the receiver is in a position to and does make a report of the condition of our affairs."

MEININGER TAKES WITNESS STAND IN OWN DEFENSE

received anything from Katz in consideration of making the money advances to him, and after testifying that Katz agreed to pay 8 per cent interest, Meininger replied to the questions concerning the collateral which he contended he had received for the bank from Katz.

"I received the insurance policies covering the boats immediately upon their delivery by the insurance agent," Meininger testified. "They were in the possession of the bank when the boats were lost, and were the same securities which the State Finance Commissioner later received."

Katz also gave mortgages from time to time, he testified, adding that these mortgages also were in the bank when it failed. Meininger said these securities were in his desk
in the bank.

In response to questions by Siden-er, Meininger said he knew the amount of loans to Katz by adding the amount of cash items to the amount of loans made by the discount committee. He said it was the custom to report the cash items to the board of directors, but that the sum of the cash items was carried in the statement and books of the bank.

He said he had not turned the insurance policies and bills of sale for the boats over to the board of directors, and that he never gave securities to the board, either in the liq-
Baker.

Asked to describe the procedure in obtaining a loan, he said that if either he or President Hohenschild approved a loan, it was made, and that it was the custom to report the loans at the next meeting of the board after they were made, submitting them to the loans and discount committee in the form of a typewritten statement.

Character Witnesses.
Following Meininger's testimony five character witnesses, including three former employees of the Night and Day Bank, testified for his defense. In response to questions they all said that Meininger was a good reputation for truth, honesty, integrity and veracity.

The former employees of the bank
were Miss Mary Driscoll and Miss Nellie H. Berry, who were employed as saving tellers, and H. A. Bea of 3422 Lillian avenue, who at different times was in charge of the new business department and the Liberty bond department, but who now is in the tire business. Other character witnesses were William E. Rouse of 28 Hampton Park, St. Louis County, a real estate dealer, and W. E. Fuc-ter, president of the Fuetterer Buttery Supply Co.

Thomas E. Francis, attorney for the State Finance Commissioner, who was recalled by the State in request, after the defense had rested, testified that Meyer Katz had stated that he did not owe certain money to the bank, but would be willing to sign notes for his alleged amount of indebtedness if it would help Meininger, and that the only security found in the bank by the Finance Commissioner for Katz loans was an assignment of insurance policies and a bill of sale for barges.

Francis testified that Katz had obtained $213,000 from the bank without security, that he later furnished notes for $187,000 and that Francis had demanded that the furnish security in notes for the difference in the two amounts, $26,000.

Asked about a conversation he had in March or April, 1922, with Attorney John A. Hope, in the latter's office, at which Katz was present, Francis said the subject was Katz's indebtedness to the Night and Day Bank.

"The Commissioner of Finance
had turned over to me a memo containing certain items, the aggregate amount of which I do not now recall," said Francis, "but the best of my recollection is that it was in excess of $200,000."

Katz had executed and delivered to the Commissioner certain promissory notes secured by assignment of marine insurance on boats of his or the Panuco Transportation Co., of which he was head, on boats that had sunk in the Gulf of Mexico.

Conversation With Katz.
"I said to Katz," I demand that you execute a note for the amount shown on this memorandum or furnish me with evidence that you do not owe the amount," Katz replied.
"I do not owe the bank that amount."
"I said to him," This memo and the cash items and other records in the bank show you owe the bank
this amount, and you will be required to sign a demand note for the difference between this amount and the note you have already signed;
otherwise you will have to furnish proof that you do not owe the money. If you don't, I'll bring action against you in court."

"He again said he did not owe the amount. I inquired what amount he did owe and he said, 'About the amount mentioned in the closing of the bank. Hope testified that at the time the policies were assigned the bills
of sale were given."

Ernest B. Kemper, a St. Louis
insurance inspector, testified that he appraised two of Katz's boats, the Edna Lee at $30,000 and a "cock
boat" at $40,000, for purposes of insurance. On cross-examination, he said that the Edna Lee was built in 1897 and was in a dilapidated condition.

(The testimony of Meyer Katz for
the Meininger defense, next in importance to that of the indicted
casher, will be found on page 22 of
this edition.)

On cross-examination by the defense, Francis testified that in April, 1922, he had a conversation
with Katz in which Katz said, in reply to a question from Francis,
that he had never given Meininger
any money nor had an agreement
to pay him anything.

Roy Niemann, a bank examiner,
testified he heard Finance Commissioner Hughes say to Katz, two days
after the bank closed: "You owe this bank more than $200,000, for which we have no security. Now get busy
and do something about that."

Katz had previously testified that Niemann was not present at any time
that he (Katz) conferred with Hughes.

W. R. Gilbert of counsel for Mein-
inger, testified on cross-examination
that he saw bills of sale relating to
boats on Commissioner Hughes' desk
in the Night and Day Bank shortly after the failure. This was intended to show that the collateral was up before Katz had any conversation with Francis.

John A. Hope, a St. Louis lawyer, who testified that he had been attorney for both Meininger and Katz
at various times, was the first witness today. He gave testimony conflicting with that of Francis, and
testified that he gave mortgages and
insurance policies on the boats, while Hope testified that the insurance
policies and bills of sale were not turned over by Katz until after the bank had failed and Katz had been summoned by the State Finance

the bank. Hope testified that at the

Ernest B. Kemper, a St. Louis
insurance inspector, testified that he
appraised two of Katz's boats, the
boat" at $40,000, for purposes of insurance. On cross-examination, he said that the Edna Lee was built in 1897 and was in a dilapidated condition.

(The testimony of Meyer Katz for
the Meininger defense, next in importance to that of the indicted
casher, will be found on page 22 of
this edition.)

On cross-examination by the defense, Francis testified that in April, 1922, he had a conversation
with Katz in which Katz said, in
reply to a question from Francis,
that he had never given Meininger
any money nor had an agreement
to pay him anything.

Roy Niemann, a bank examiner,
testified he heard Finance Commissioner Hughes say to Katz, two days
after the bank closed: "You owe this
and do something about that."

Katz had previously testified that Niemann was not present at any time
Hughes.

W. R. Gilbert of counsel for Mein-
inger, testified on cross-examination
that he saw bills of sale relating to
boats on Commissioner Hughes' desk
in the Night and Day Bank shortly
after the failure. This was intended
to show that the collateral was up
before Katz had any conversation
with Francis.

John A. Hope, a St. Louis lawyer,
who testified that he had been attorney for both Meininger and Katz
at various times, was the first witness today. He gave testimony conflicting with that of Francis, and
testified that he gave mortgages and
insurance policies on the boats, while
Hope testified that the insurance
policies and bills of sale were not
bank had failed and Katz had been

FORMER POLICEMAN SAID TO HAVE CONFESSED TO HOLDUPS

Questioned by Memphis Detective Who is Investigating Killing of Store Manager.

By the Associated Press.
KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 31.—Ernest
Johnson, a former member of a fifth Memphis police department, was arrested today and taken before W. H.
Griffin, detective inspector, who is directing the investigation into the recent slaying of W. O. Spencer, chain store manager and according to an announcement by Griffin confessed to 12 holdups on the outskirts of Memphis.

On cross-examination Hope testified he attended a conference after the bank closed, at which Thomas E.
Francis, attorney for the State Finance Commissioner, Katz and several other persons were present, and that Francis had a memorandum of the amount which Francis said it appeared Katz owed. The amount,
he said, was in excess of $200,000.

He testified Francis told Katz he did not expect him to pay the amount he had listed unless he owed it, but that unless Katz could convince him he did not owe the money he would have to ask that Katz give a note covering the amount. Hope said his recollection was that Katz neither admitted nor denied that he owed it, but that he executed the note.

"Is it not a fact," Assistant Circuit Attorney Garstank asked, "that Katz said he did not owe the money, but that Meininger had been his friend and that such collateral as he had it would do Meininger any good, he would sign the note?"

"No, I don't think so," Hope replied, "but he had no objection to signing it if it would be of any help to Meininger."

The effect of Hope's testimony was
that there was no collateral taken by Meininger for the Katz advances.
After two conferences with representatives of the Finance Commissioner,
the effect of Hope's testimony was
that there was no collateral taken by Meininger for the Katz advances.

Bills of Sale Turned Over.
The suggestion that bills of sale for the boats he turned over to the Finance Commissioner first came from former Gov. Major, a director of the bank, Hope said, and the bills of sale were made and turned over
after two conferences with representatives of the Finance Commissioner.

According to attorneys for the State, the insurance policies were assigned by Katz Jan. 7, 1922, the amount mentioned in the closing of
the bank. Hope testified that at the
of sale were given.

BUSINESS CONDITIONS SOUND DESPITE LULL

St. Louis Federal Reserve Report Says Slackening of Activities Is Temporary.

While a slackening of business activities in the Eighth Federal Reserve District was noted in the last month, fundamentally conditions remain sound, according to the monthly business report of the St. Louis Federal Reserve Bank, issued today.

The present lull is considered by more conservative business men as only temporary, the report asserts, and is due to unfavorable weather conditions and caution on the part of buyers as a result of recent advances in prices.

Conditions in the South are relatively better than in the grain and stock raising areas, the report states. "As contrasted with the preceding several months the volume of new buying was smaller, though the comparison with a year ago exhibits continued large gains," the report declares. "Productions of commodities held at even high levels and in a few instances new records were established, but a large portion of the goods turned out were for application on old orders. In the clothing, dry goods, boot and shoe and drug and chemical lines future business is much heavier than at the corresponding seasons in 1921 and 1922."

Conditions Fundamentally Sound. "Fundamentally conditions remain sound and extremely healthy, the present lull being looked upon by the more conservative element of the business community as only temporary."

"It has the effect of putting the brakes on the upward price movement and permitting a more even balance throughout industry. The general demand for commodities remains large and the public is filling its wants. There are numerous favorable factors that point to a continuance of good business, chief among which are moderate stocks, universal employment of labor, high wages and an ample supply of banking credits. At no time in recent years has production and distribution of commodities kept more closely to actual consumption." Replies to questionnaires, the report continues, show that business in the South is good, adding that "in the cotton region buying of merchandise of all sorts is on a more liberal scale and collections are in the main satisfactory. The same is true of the tobacco country, where farmers are being paid for their crops, which they market through co-operative associations."

Weather Hampers Farmers. Cool weather, accompanied in many localities by excessive precipitation, hampered farm operations, the report says, but "on the whole, however, preparation of the soil is well up to normal, due to the unusually favorable weather for plowing last fall and winter. Some replanting of cotton has been necessary, due to the light frosts and too abundant moisture. Pastures have been immensely benefited by the rains and growing crops are making good progress, particularly winter wheat."

"Save for a further slight weakening in prices, the coal situation underwent no change worthy of note. The demand for steaming coal has improved somewhat during the immediate period, and some screenings are being accumulated by large customers. The demand for everything else is extremely quiet."

"Railroads continue to report record freight loadings for this time of year."

SEARCH BEGUN FOR AMERICAN WOMEN WHO DIED IN SERVICE

Roll of Honor to Be Called at Reunion in Chicago—166 Names Are Obtained.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, May 29.—To complete the record of American women who died in service overseas in the late war, the National Women's Overseas Service League will devote this Decoration day to a final effort to obtain the necessary data.

Names of 166 "gold star women," obtained by a careful search of A. E. F. records, were made public for the first time by the league last Armistice day. This was followed by the discovery that a number of American service women died and were buried in foreign soil prior to America's entry into the war. "It is the names of these women we hope now to obtain," said Miss Irene C. Givens, of Washington, D. C., curator of the American Red Cross Museum, who is in charge of the research work. "We know that many American women volunteered with many of the benefits received by farmers from Federal land banks, urged that the voters send to Washington in 1924 men, possessed of the brains and courage to enact a reasonable tariff law and to solve the railroad problem, and declared

'UNCLE SAM CALLS FOR DOCTOR'

By the Associated Press. LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 21.—William G. McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury, reviewed the success of the Federal reserve system, told of the benefits received by farmers from Federal land banks, urged that the voters send to Washington in 1924 men, possessed of the brains and courage to enact a reasonable tariff law and to solve the railroad problem, and declared

Who graduates this week?

The business man's gift to the young graduate

From the man who has arrived to the man just starting, Eversharp matched by Wahl Pen is the ideal gift. In beauty of design, this perfect pen and pencil resemble finely wrought jewelry. Yet they are essentially workers—implements of business. And they will last a lifetime.

Eversharp changed America's pencil habits. It was the first successful mechanical pencil—and Eversharp can't be copied. No other pencil has Eversharp's perfect balance. The rifled tip, which holds the lead firmly without slip or wobble, is exclusively Eversharp. The lead index tells always how much lead you have.

Wahl Pen is the greatest modern pen improvement. The barrel is all metal. It holds more ink. It will not crack or split. The threads that hold the cap will never wear out. In gold and silver, Wahl Pen matches Eversharp perfectly.

Give both! Buy these perfect writing partners in the velvet-lined gift box. At your dealer's. Eversharp, $1 to $10—Wahl Pen, $4 to $10. Solid gold at higher prices. Look for the name on the pen and pencil.

YOUTH SHOT 5 TIMES IN STREET ALTERCATION

One Held, Two Sought in Attack on Son of Phil Dwyer, Former Politician.

Robert Dwyer, 19 years old, of 4048 Garfield avenue, son of Phil Dwyer, former Democratic politician and saloonkeeper, was shot five times at Vandeventer avenue and North Market street at 10:50 o'clock last night and is at city hospital in a critical condition.

Thomas Neary of 3919 Garfield, one of three men who had an altercation with Dwyer preceding the shooting, is held by the police. The other two men are being sought. Stories as to what led up to the shooting are conflicting. Dwyer, the father, said Neary and the two other men tried to borrow some money from Robert and when he refused them, one of them shot him. The wounded man told police, before lapsing into unconsciousness, that he believes Neary shot him. Neary denied this.

Neary said he and two companions were standing at Vandeventer and North Market when Dwyer and two friends in an automobile stopped there. He said Dwyer drew a revolver and ordered one of his (Neary's) companions to get in the car and when the man refused, Dwyer fired several shots in the air and then threatened him and his two companions. One of Neary's companions, the latter said, drew a pistol, threw it on the ground and fled. The other of his companions, Neary said, then picked up the pistol and fired several shots at Dwyer and also fled.

Dwyer was found lying in the street. Two bullets had entered his abdomen, through the back; one, the right shoulder, a fourth, the left arm, and the fifth entered the left leg.

Dwyer was a collector for the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

NEW SUSPECT IN HALL-MILLS MURDER CASE UNEARTHED

By the Associated Press.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., May 31.—County officials have unearthed a new suspect in their investigation into the murder last September of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and his choir leader, Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills, it was learned today. Officials admitted that a man previously questioned and who had presented an alibi now was the subject of investigation. It was said his story, which earlier had caused his elimination as a suspect, had been found to be untrue in essential details.

Recent investigations, officials said, had further convinced them that the story of Mrs. Jane Gibson, a nearby farmer woman, was without foundation. Mrs. Gibson maintained she had seen a man and a woman, unidentified by her, commit the murders.

INJUNCTION OBTAINED AGAINST OKLAHOMA COLLEGE PRESIDENT

Temporary Order Prevents Former Nonpartisan League Worker From Taking Office Until July 1.

By the Associated Press.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Ok., May 31.—George Wilson, president-elect of Oklahoma A. and M. College, is restrained from assuming office at Stillwater until July 1, when the term of President J. B. Eskridge expires, under a temporary injunction obtained by Eskridge here last night in the court of District Judge William H. Zwick.

Eskridge charged in his petition that Wilson, M. J. Otey, financial secretary of the college, and others had conspired to oust him before the expiration of his term in order to suppress the audit of Otey's books now in progress.

Hearing on the permanent injunction asked by Eskridge was set for June 11.

Eskridge alleged in his petition that Otey and others had undertaken to keep out of the hands of the State Auditor and Inspector certain records, necessary to complete the audit.

The State organization of the American Legion, hundreds of students at A. and M. College, many residents of Stillwater, and others throughout the State have protested unavailingly against Wilson's appointment. He is a former Nonpartisan League worker and organized the Farmer-Labor Reconstruction League of Oklahoma to which Gov. Walton attributes his election.

BOY, 11, FOUND STRANGLED TO DEATH IN HIS HOME

Theory of Police Is He Ended His Life Because of Family Left Him Alone and Went to Theater.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 31.—The body of Francis Dangier, 11 years old, strangled to death with two neckties, was found by his 6-year-old sister, Helen, when she opened the door of their home in Brooklyn last night. He had been left at home while his parents and his sister went to a motion picture show, the police were told. The girl was the first to return.

Investigation by the police led them to believe that the boy ended his own life because of pique over having been left at home while other members of his family went to a nearby theater. Another theory is that he strangled himself while shamming at an attempt at suicide.

4 PERSONS HURT BY AIRPLANE

Machine Turns Into Crowd When Rudder Becomes Jammed.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 31.—Four persons in a crowd watching an airplane piloted by G. I. McGowan of Kokomo, Ind., with a Chicago newspaper reporter as passenger, take off from Grant Park yesterday, were injured when the rudder became jammed and the plane turned into the midst of the crowd. Isaac Abraham, 50 years old, suffered serious internal injuries and his left arm was torn off by the propeller blade. Abraham and Herman Erickson, who suffered a fractured collar bone, were rushed to a hospital. An unidentified man and girl were knocked down, cut and bruised.

Just one little thing proved big enough to offset his otherwise well-groomed appearance. It at once branded him as an unfashionable person.

YET he, himself, was quite unaware of it—that day or any other day. He was well-dressed and spruce looking. He'd pass agreeably in any crowd.

But every time he opened his lips to speak his teeth became a silent indictment of the man's real sense of fastidiousness. They were not clean. They were dull, stained and bore marks of neglect. And with a great many people he came in daily contact with he was marked down as a careless person. To some he was even revolting.

Notice for yourself today how you instinctively watch a person's teeth when he or she is talking. It's done unconsciously because the eye automatically seeks the source of a sound. This means that in conversation your teeth are being constantly watched by someone.

Only the right dentifrice—consistently used—will protect you against such criticism. Listerine Tooth Paste cleans teeth a new way. The first tube you buy (25 cents) or the free sample (see coupon) will prove this to you. You will notice the improvement even in the first few days. And, moreover, just as Listerine is the safe antiseptic, so Listerine Tooth Paste is the safe dentifrice. It cleans yet it cannot injure the enamel.

What are your teeth saying about you today?

NOT ALL DEALERS SELL GOODYEAR TIRES

Dealers whose first thought is a large margin of profit are not especially interested in Goodyear Tires, for Goodyear margins are relatively small.

Dealers who decline to service tires and thus save money for their customers are likewise uninterested, for Goodyear expects its dealers to give service.

Because we believe in smaller margins and extra tire quality, and in conscientious service, we have been selected as Goodyear Service Station Dealers in this town.

We believe with Goodyear that these things are essential to satisfied customers and a permanent business, and therefore we operate on that basis.

When you buy tires from us you buy the most popular tires in the world, and a service that will help you get from these tires all the mileage built into them at the factory.

As Goodyear Service Station Dealers we sell and recommend Goodyear Tires and back them up with standard Goodyear Service

NEGRO WOUNDED TWICE WITH OWN REVOLVER

East St. Louis Street Car Conductor Seizes Weapon in Fight Over Fare.

George Washington, 35 years old, 2121 Kansas avenue, East St. Louis, a negro laborer, was shot twice with his own revolver at 6 p. m. yesterday, by Ray Burroughs, 25, conductor on the Broadway line of the East St. Louis & Suburban Railway Co., following an argument over payment of fare while the car was traveling on Broadway, between Nineteenth and Twentieth streets.

The negro, who was taken to Deaconess Hospital in a serious condition, has made no statement to police. Burroughs said the negro tendered a $5 bill in payment for fare. The conductor could not make change at that time and permitted the negro to take a seat in the car.

When Burroughs later sought to make change the negro refused to pay his fare, Burroughs said. A fight started, during which the negro drew a revolver, striking Burroughs on the head. Burroughs obtained possession of the weapon, firing six shots at the negro. One shot took effect in the right foot, another in the upper part of the chest on the right side. There were a number of male passengers on the car at the time, but no women.

72 CENTS AN HOUR FOR TILE AND MARBLE SETTERS' HELPERS

Wage Scale Difficulties Settled by Arbitration and Scale is Retroactive to May 21.

The wage scale difficulties of 75 tile and marble setters' helpers, who went on strike April 20, demanding an increase from 62½ cents to 85 cents an hour, have been settled by arbitration. The new scale of 72 cents an hour going into effect a week ago last Monday. The helpers went back to work that day, after being out nearly a month, and signed an agreement to abide by the arbitrator's decision.

Everett Langenberg for the employers and Frank P. Furlong for the union made the decision. Langenberg said the men insisted upon being classed as skilled mechanics but that the arbitrator "couldn't see it that way."

Self-Medication Is Always a Dangerous Practice
Unless "medicine" is aimed at the source of a person's ailment, one may as well carry a rabbit's foot or practice some phony "cult" for all the good it will do him. You know medicine doesn't exactly "cure" anything. Nature's immediate tendency is to correct any abuse or disarrangement of normal bodily functions—and medicine merely reinforces her in this work. A headache may be the "signal" that any one of a dozen things are wrong. In better than ninety per cent of kidney trouble there is no pain. And apparently it is only with a desire to "beat the doctor's fee" that many people eagerly swallow anything and everything recommended by others who know nothing of the ailment. Such a practice is always very dangerous. The doctor finds the SOURCE of the trouble. Then writes his prescription accordingly.

CONTEST OVER CROKER WILL OPENS BEFORE JURY IN DUBLIN

Widow's Counsel Says Case Will Be Fought on Plea of Former Marriage.

By the Associated Press.
DUBLIN, May 31.—The contest over the will of the late Richard Croker opened today before Chief Justice Maloney and a special jury. Sergeant Hanna, counsel for the widow, propounding the question on which the case would be fought. Mrs. Ethel C. White, Croker's daughter, has alleged that Bula Croker was already married to Guy R. Marone and concealed this fact when she went through the marriage ceremony with the late Tammany chieftain. Mrs. Croker was present when the hearing opened. Sergeant Sullivan headed the counsel for Richard Croker Jr., against the will. In continuing his statement, Sergeant Hanna declared the friction between the elder Croker and his children had looked down on their father as unfit to take a place in New York society through a lack of culture and because of his origin. He went on to recount the life history of the Tammany leader, his differences with his family and his second marriage, to a lady of 30 years whom he met in New York.

In 1913, the attorney added, Mr. Croker made a will in New York leaving everything to his son, Richard. In 1915 in Ireland he made a will leaving each child $20,000 with the balance of the estate to the widow.

Mrs. Croker, added the lawyer, would give evidence of violent scenes between father and son in New York in 1916.

FOUR ADDITIONAL MOTOR BUSES ARE PUT INTO SERVICE HERE

Four additional motor buses were placed in operation today by the People's Motorbus Co., augmenting the fleet of 16 which began serving the public Monday night. The 20 buses are being used on the route along Washington avenue and Delmar boulevard from Third street to University City. Fifteen thousand persons were carried by the 16 buses in operation yesterday, officials of the company said. They declared patronage was far in excess of expectations, even though yesterday was a holiday, and added that orders have been placed for several additional vehicles. It is the plan of the company, officials said, to ultimately operate 150 or more buses here. Inauguration of the proposed cross-town line along Grand boulevard will be delayed until the east-west service is perfected, under present plans of the company. Seven buses are operated between Lindell cutoff and the Municipal Theater in Forest Park each day.

evening during the municipal opera season. These buses operate only before and after the performance, while persons are going to and coming from the opera. The fare is 10 cents.

CREW SAYS MISSIONARY FACING DEATH WOULDN'T LEAVE ISLANDMen Aboard Schooner Declare Lone White Man Refused to Be Rescued From Natives.

Correspondence of the Associated Press.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., May 2.—The story of the zeal of a lone missionary on one of the uncivilized islands of the Solomon group, who was rescued from the hands of head-hunters, but refused to be taken away from his chosen station, has just been brought to Sydney by an island schooner. Men aboard the schooner, nearing the island, saw a number of natives in war paint dancing around a blazing fire, according to their story.

The Captain, believing that some person might be in danger, armed the crew and sent them ashore. They fired a volley over the heads of the natives who ran into the bush. The crew investigated a European-built house and found a white man inside, praying on his knees. He said that he was a missionary and had been on the island for a year. Sickness had broken out among the natives and he had been blamed for the loss of life. The natives had sent their womenfolk into the bush and started a war-dance. As that was a sign of future trouble, he had locked himself in the house.

The missionary was importuned to abandon his idea of staying among the natives, and invited to come aboard the vessel for safety. He refused, however, and the ship sailed away, leaving him at his lonely and dangerous post.

MAN REPORTED SHOT AS HE REFUSED A DRINK

Police Investigating Death of Herman Smith, 30, From Wound in Abdomen.

Herman Smith, 30 years old, of 3987 Polson avenue, died at City Hospital at 1:15 a. m. today from a bullet wound in the abdomen inflicted under circumstances as yet undetermined by police.

He was taken to the hospital at 5 a. m. yesterday from his rooming house. When questioned he said he had resisted the attempt of two negroes to hold him up on the street near his home the night before and one of them had shot him. Surgeons who attended Smith doubted his story as his wound appeared to be several days old. Police investigating learned he had returned to his room Sunday night weak and sick and had told friends a horse kicked him.

Lieut. McKenna, of the Magnolia District was told the following story, which he is investigating:

Sunday night Smith and several cronies were loafing on the corner of Lawrence and Polson avenues. A man known as Taylor produced a bottle of whisky and offered Smith a drink. He declined, saying it was "moonshine" and he expected to go to work in the morning. Becoming angry, Taylor drew a revolver and said, "You will take a drink!" He then placed the muzzle against Smith's stomach and held the whisky bottle to his lips, ordering him to drink. Smith still refused and Taylor shot him.

Another phase under police investigation is a theory that Smith was one of three men loitering in the vicinity of a postoffice branch at 4832 Easton avenue Monday night, who were fired upon by Patrolman Charles Dolan when they refused to stop for questioning. However, Patrolman Dolan was unable to identify Smith as one of the men when he was at the hospital. Neither Smith nor those known to have been his associates were affiliated with a gang and officers working on the case do not think he was the victim of gangsters. Smith had served one term in the Workhouse, being charged with highway robbery but was permitted to plead guilty to a minor offense.

Poplar Bluff Klan to Build Home.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., May 31.—The Poplar Bluff Ku Klux Klan has purchased a home. The site is a 40-acre tract located somewhere on the St. Louis road, north of the city. The money is said to have been raised by popular subscription in less than 15 minutes at a recent outdoor meeting. A Klavern, a great rustic building suitable for meetings and as a clubhouse as well, will be constructed. Work is expected to be started on it before the end of next month.

DARING CARTOON FAMILY A

Beebohm's Caricature
bition and Artists
Press A

By Cable to the Post-Dispatch
New York World.

LONDON, May 31.—Max Vohm has gone to the country. He is gossiping about his caricatures of royalty at the "Galleries" exhibition of his work which have just been withdrawn. It is tradition in England that the family should not be caricatured. Max, who is England's leading caricaturist, and has exhibited before, has had several such withdrawals from the public gaze.

But this time he has made hits at the Prince of Wales, Queen Mary and Edward VII. Some earlier cartoons also poked fun at Edward, but the Leicester Galleries refused to exhibit them with the royal family. So the artist-author carried himself then to lampooning internationally known persons of rank.

One of the canceled exhibits called "Song Choosing and Beating Late." It shows the Prince of Wales standing by a table in the room office facing his "bride." Below drawing is:

"Extract from the Times, Nov. 29, 1917."

Limits Transgressed by Artist
"An interesting wedding was celebrated yesterday at the Registry Office, when Mr. Ed Windsor was united to Miss Pearson. The bridegroom, as readers will recall, was at one well known as 'their apparent late King' George. He has some years been residing at 85 Arcadia Terrace, Lennox, Ealing, and the bride, daughter of his landlady."

There was more of the same which prompted the Morning Post to declare: "There are limits of which even a caricaturist must observe. Mr. Beebohm, in view, transgresses these limits."

FIGHT FOR FOREIGN SAFEGUARD IN TURKEY CONTINUED BY U

Minister Crew Seeking Additional Turkish Assurances for Residents of Other Nations.

By the Associated Press.
LAUSANNE, May 31.—The fight for judicial safeguards for foreign residents in Turkey, which was by the allies, who accepted Pasha's proposal, is being continued by Joseph C. Crew. The American Minister is seeking additional Turkish assurances for the protection of foreigners, among whom are Americans.

The allies had long contended that foreign legal advisers should have veto power over arrests and disciplinary searches in connection with foreign residents, and this came near disrupting the conference yesterday, although everyone seemed disposed to conceal that fact. The allies, pending the approval of their respective Governments, to make public the text of the agreement; they insist that, while they may have lost their main point, they have agreed to compensate safeguards, which makes the settlement a compromise. The Turks say only concession was agreement to notify the advisers of arrests, they remark that there is a distinct provision that the advisers must seek to interfere with trials.

Advisers will be appointed by key to hold office for five years to place the old consular courts and judicial capitulations. The right trial by the American Minister is one of the features of the old Turkish American treaty, which the Americans expected to revise at Lausanne.

BALDWIN SAYS HE WILL FOSTER ANGLO-AMERICAN FRIENDSHIP

New Prime Minister Asserts He Will Sustain It One of His Most Important and Congenial Duties.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, May 31.—Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin yesterday issued a statement to the American press in which he declared that the fostering of Anglo-American friendship was one of "the most important and congenial" of his duties. The statement follows:

"During the last week I have received many messages of good wishes from the United States and numerous requests for statements to be published in American newspapers. I should like to answer all these messages individually, but as I am busy with the pressure of work, I cannot do so. I am, however, deeply grateful for such a course physically impossible."

"It is, indeed, a pleasure to me that I have the good wishes of many of those Americans with whom it was my fortune to spend last week some of the most enjoyable and profitable days of my career. I left Washington more than convinced that the prosperity and peace of the world depend to a small extent upon the steady growth of Anglo-American friendship, and I need hardly say that during my term of office the fostering of this growth will always be one of the most important and congenial of my duties."

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

The Speech of the Proletariat.

I HAVE observed that when a criticism is made of the United Railways by one of your readers you afford that corporation an opportunity to prepare a defense—an excellent practice which might be extended to members of the House and other bodies occasionally more or less justly assailed. If you wished to be broadly democratic, but I was pained to note, in your issue of the 25th, that you had not called upon Mr. Perkins to reply to Joe S. Heide, the author of a letter on "Grammar in the Street Cars." Mr. Heide objected to the language employed by "Motorman Bill" set forth in a street car placard. "Motorman Bill" in that placard, is permitted to say, "If passengers kept off the car tracks like cars keep off the sidewalks, there would be less accidents." Mr. Heide complains that "less" for "fewer" is bad, though he permits the equally corrupt "like cars" for "as cars" to go unnoticed.

Since Mr. Perkins did not take this occasion to come to the rescue of his interesting corporation, may I not serve in his place for once? The point is that "Motorman Bill" was permitted to express himself in his own language, and in this way a quality of genuineness was imparted to what he said. I am not sure that all "Motorman Bills" speak in the vernacular, but I suppose a typical "Motorman Bill" would do so, and when he has anything to say I should not wish any pursuit to iron his English out for him. I would even go so far as to say that the editor of a great newspaper might very well take a lesson from the book of the United Railways. When a reporter has occasion to interview a cutthroat or a robber or a police officer or a mad-scientist (to say nothing of prominent politicians, commercial magnates and others of that type) he returns to his desk and writes an article of which the subjoined may be given as a fair specimen.

"Bill Bluke, who was seen in the hold-over shortly after he had dynamited the bridge, made the following statement: 'I obtained my supply of explosive from a foreman who is an amicable terms with me, and proceeded to the site of the bridge, anticipating no difficulty in carrying out my nefarious plan. The meteorological conditions were propitious and in a gratifyingly brief period I was prepared to ignite the fuse and precipitate a catastrophe.'"

Does anyone suppose that the way Bill Bluke expresses himself, and wouldn't the public get a more complete thrill (to say nothing of a just idea of what had actually happened) if the reporter or the copy editor would "let Bill say it"? I will admit that the great men of our time ought to be "edited," otherwise we should soon have no great men. But I insist that the poor devil who makes no great pretenses, including "Motorman Bill," ought to be let alone. We know him by his speech, and I for one confess that I enjoy hearing the kind of English which Paul Elmer More doesn't know but which Mark Twain delighted in.

No Children Unless Landlords Consent.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
FOR the sake of the rent boys, I recommend this law: No child hereafter born in the United States shall be eligible to a home in the United States unless both parents are members of the Landlords' Union, and agree to its standing rules regarding number of children in a family, or No child hereafter born shall be born in the United States without landlords' permission.

RENT BOY VICTIM.

Grand Boulevard Sidewalks.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
WHY do the people of St. Louis tolerate such dilapidated and dangerous sidewalks as are found along one of the busy parts of Grand boulevard? At Grand boulevard and Henrietta street is one of the worst sidewalks in St. Louis, and there is another at Grand boulevard and Lafayette avenue. These old brick walks are continually out of repair and are public nuisances and a menace to pedestrians. If the owners will not respond to the present-day standards of improvement, why cannot the city condemn these brick cowpaths and lay concrete sidewalks at the expense of the owners?

A PEDESTRIAN.

The Slot Machines.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:
THERE have been quite a few obituaries published recently towards the slot machines. In fact, I believe a prohibition has been placed on them. And in spite of these oppositions, these devices are still existing.
May I ask a question? What was the purpose, from the first, in putting these machines out? Was it for the purpose of amusement, or of making money? My dear friends, this is nothing but a gambling device, and is not gambling in any sense. Have we not enough evils existing today? Need we add more to the present number?

Are not crime gangs considered an evil and unlawful? Then, what difference is there between dice and these slot machines, that the former is prohibited and the latter is allowed to exist? Is there any difference between one gambling game and another? There is as much difference between these two as there is between two thieves.

If we cannot chase away the present evil, let us at least keep away new ones. Let us get rid of these evils one at a time, beginning with these slot machines. Add let us keep after them till they are done away with.

CLARENCE BARRIS.

CONSTITUTION OR KLAN.

The Ku Klux Klan of New York has come out in bold, organized, sweeping defiance of a law recently passed by the Legislature of that State requiring the Klan to place on public record the names of its members and copies of its constitution and by-laws. The design of this law is to make it impossible for the Klan anonymously to commit murder in New York, as was so grossly done in Louisiana, and to put an end to this ugly camorra's reign of masked terrorism and high-handed outrage.

The law does not become effective until Saturday, so that the demonstration, but if sincere it would be logical, since the Klan, in conception and practice, is a lawless organization. Vehement denials of that obvious charge have been made, with impassioned sophistry and pseudo-patriotic blarney, but the New York challenge cannot be denied. Here was a State-wide demonstration of the law, at meetings held at numerous points from Buffalo to Long Island, speakers adjured the listening members to disobey this law and obey the rules of the order by keeping secret the names of the members and the details of the organization under penalty of "disgrace, dishonor and spiritual death." A typical klannish attitude was struck in the declaration that, in signing this bill, Gov. Smith had sealed his political doom.

The issue, therefore, is squarely joined in New York as to whether that State shall have a government of law or a government of lawlessness. The constitution of the Klan is the alternative. If the Klan can carry out its resolution constitutional government, manifestly, will have broken down in New York. Further, anarchy will have been set up. For if the Ku Klux Klan can openly defy and refuse to obey the law there is no reason why any other group or bloc or special interest may not, with equal warrant, assert similar contempt for and superiority to, any law it finds objectionable. That sequence is not hypothetical; it is inevitable.

Unwittingly, the Klan, in its latest spasm, has rendered a public service. It has impressed upon all thoughtful citizens the growing contempt for law. It has shown how fast the infection of lawlessness is spreading. It has driven home, with melodramatic impact, the solemn truth that disrespect for one law breeds disrespect for all law.

The State of New York has a duty to perform. It must meet the Ku Klux challenge, and meet it sternly. There can be no compromise. But the significance of this uprising should be faced, not only by New York, but by the entire country. By evidence already mountainously high we are enjoined that there are limits beyond which the law must not presume to pass—that there are reserves which the law must not invade—that in certain personal questions the citizen must be a free agent, with individual responsibility his guide. The American people are not yet ready to march in moral goose step at the command of a theocracy.

The tyranny of law is intolerable. It begets the answering tyranny of lawlessness. That is what is happening in the United States on a vast and ominous scale. The laws are making us a nation of lawbreakers. The Ku Klux Klan is but a virulent symptom of a national disease.

SAVE THE SOAP BOX.

In the belief that "more individual solicitation and intensive organization work" is necessary to build up their depleted party, the Socialists have resolved that the practice of "merely holding street meetings" shall be abandoned. Skids for the soap box, in the language of the street.

Individual solicitation is the rule of growth for any political organization, but in their justified faith in that means of conversion it is a pity the Socialists are abandoning the soap box. It has served a useful purpose. Much nonsense is talked from soap boxes, but much serious discussion of political and economic problems has also sounded from that humble platform.

In England, which since the ratification of the eighteenth amendment is described as a free country by contrast, free speech in public is respected. Hyde Park, London, echoes every Sunday to a dozen unbroken heresies. Its spirit is in the classic remark of its London policeman: "Ere, if you want to 'arg' the King, go an' 'arg' 'im beyond the Marble Arch." Say what you like, but do not obstruct traffic.

Our Lusk law fanatics and censorship agitators have not sufficiently noted the parallel between human beings and the steam boiler, which, without a safety valve, blows up and mashes its surroundings. Free speech is a safety valve for boiling minds. Socialist leaders may care little about safety valves; may think repression and consequent discontent advantageous to their cause. But the community in general would have reason to view the disappearance of the soap box with genuine regret. We suspect that it is not disappearing. Somebody will use it even if the Socialists do not.

GOV. PINCHOT BRAYS.

Gov. Pinchot of Pennsylvania has declared a holy war for the defense of the eighteenth amendment and the enforcement of the Volstead act.

He told the Civil War veterans at Gettysburg with impassioned words that as they fought to destroy human slavery their descendants must fight to uphold the eighteenth amendment; in other words, to preserve the constitutional denial of human liberty in America.

Judging, however, from Gov. Pinchot's description of the nullifiers of the Constitution, whom he denounced in unmeasured terms, he was aiming chiefly at the bootleggers. These gentry, whose opportunities were created and whose fortunes are made through the eighteenth amendment, are not its opponents. They violate the prohibition laws, but ardently favor the prohibition amendment. They will fight for it side by side with the Governor and his Antisaloon League legions.

We stand with Gov. Pinchot for the Constitution, but we do not quite agree with his identification of its real enemies or with his silly assertion that all those who oppose the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead law are base lawbreakers who are following appetites and are without conviction. But a man who puts the fight for prohibition in the same class with the fight against human slavery is capable of any degree of asininity. He brays.

A SERIOUS ST. LOUIS PROBLEM.

The negro population of St. Louis is growing about 1000 a month by migration from the South. Where are we going to put the new arrivals? This is a question of concern to every resident of St. Louis, not excepting the inhabitants of protected districts. Thousands of others will dread a loss in home values if the black population invades their neighborhood. Friction between the races as a consequence of this situation might develop serious trouble.

This is a subject which cannot be treated in the spirit of personal prejudice, fear or resentment without aggravating the situation. Local industries need the labor and it may continue to come indefinitely. Nothing can be settled by purely restrictive measures. Congestion of blacks in already overpopulated districts would increase disease and crime. Such evils are no respecter of boundaries. That is why no district would be free from penalty if the question of housing for the new colored population is not met dispassionately, tolerantly and constructively.

The problem becomes more formidable with every day's delay in action. Enormous values, tangible and intangible are in the balance. The situation cannot be handled by the city authorities beyond a very limited degree. In a recent report to the Board of Public Service, Director Cluniff of the Department of Public Welfare describes the situation and calls for remedial consideration. The next appeal must be to the citizens for a mobilization of forces to cope adequately with the problem.

THE DETROIT EXPERIMENT.

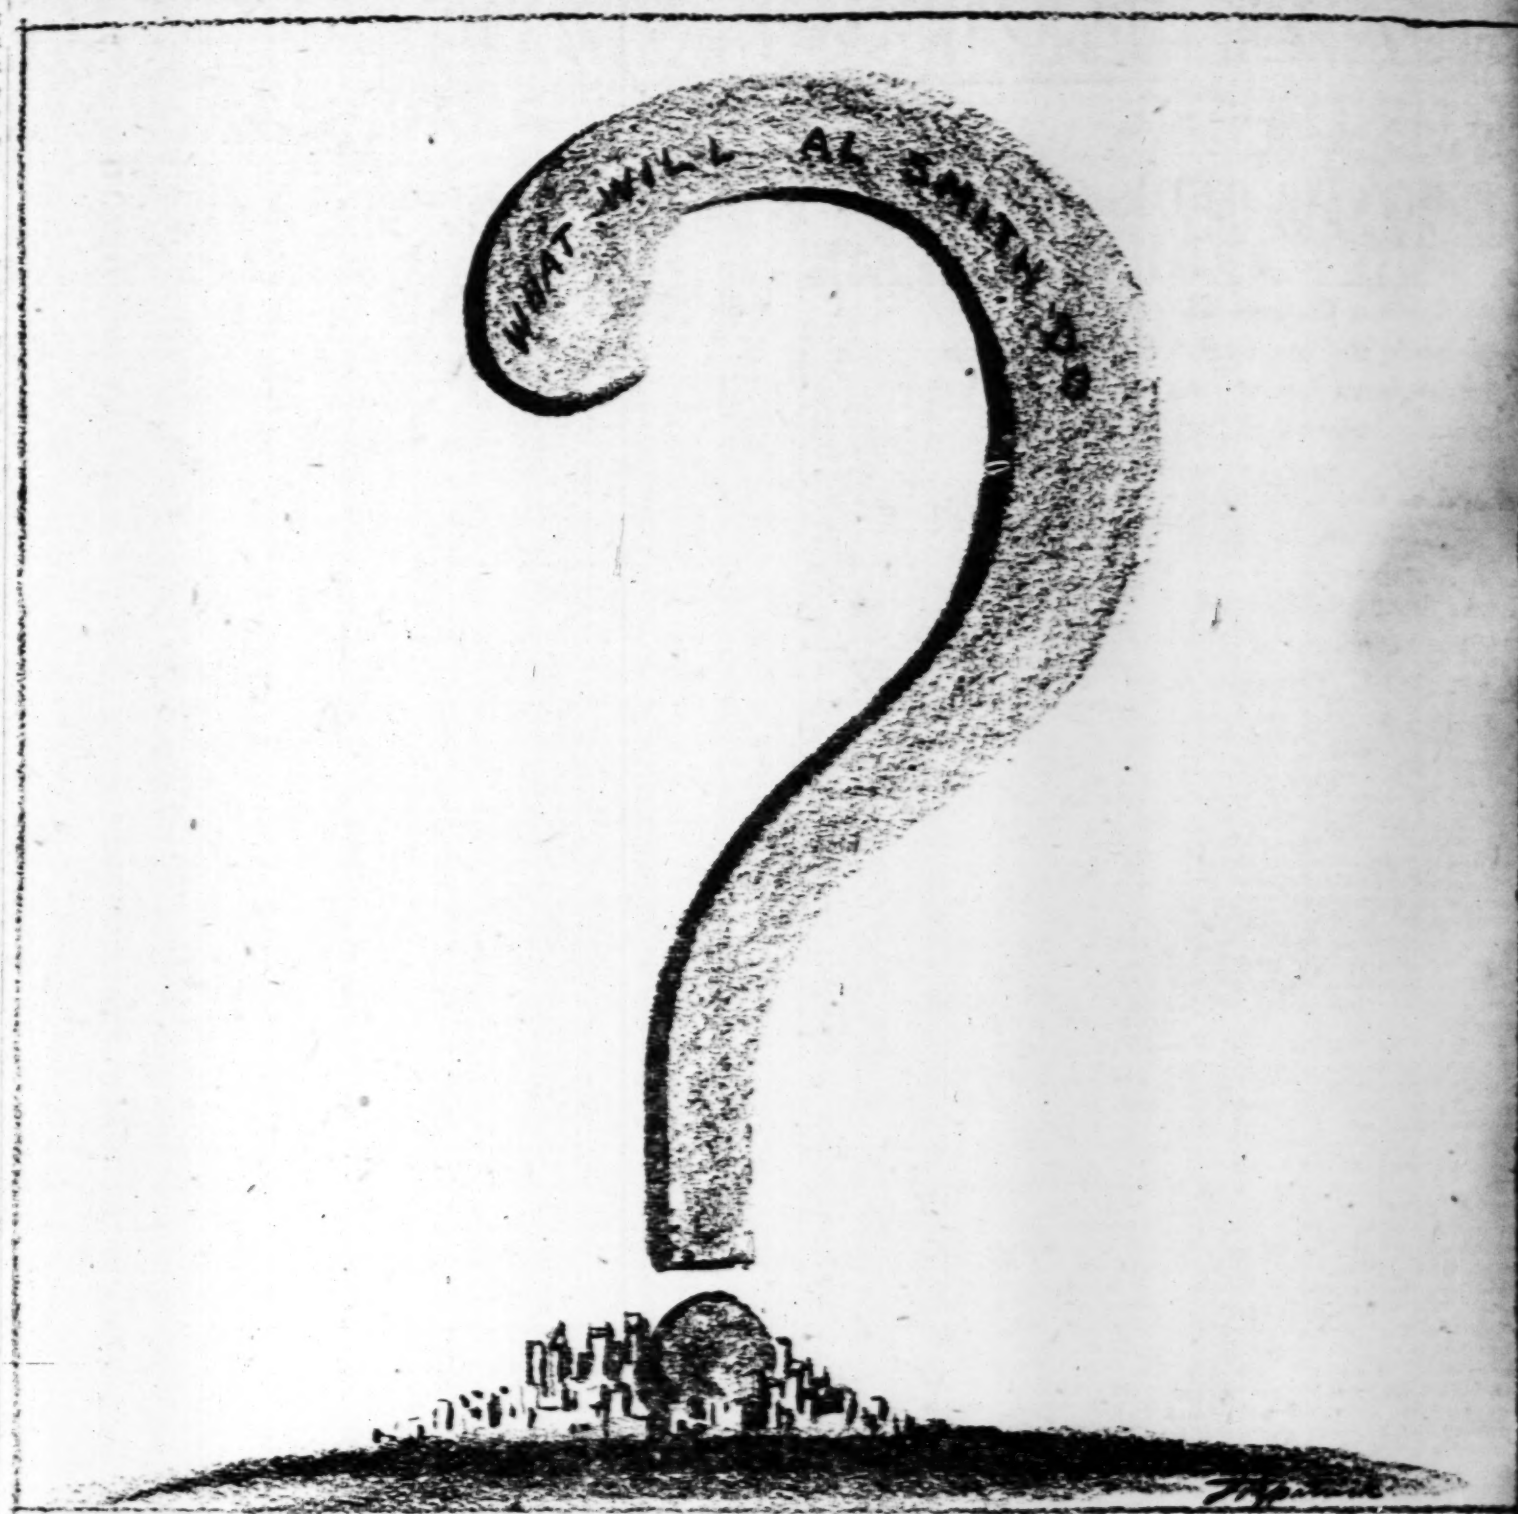

The first year of municipal ownership and operation of Detroit's street railway system has been a success, according to an official report printed in yesterday's Post-Dispatch. A net profit of $1,034,000 is shown. Payments amounting to $700,000 account the purchase of the private company's holdings, have been made. A sinking fund of $4,000,000 has been set aside to meet interest charges, together with provisions for other liabilities.

Whether the report will stand the microscopic scrutiny of municipal operation's adversaries we do not know. It may be too, that circumstances during the past year were propitious and that the test of adverse conditions must be had before a favorable conclusion can be reached. But the people of Detroit at least can say so far so good.

The Detroit experiment, of course, does not demonstrate the superiority of public ownership and operation over private, though it will be hailed by the socialists. What it does seemingly demonstrate is the fact that, in this undertaking, Detroit has had the advantage of having unusually capable business direction in the person of Mr. Couzens and his successor.

WHEN you are waiting in an automobile for the traffic cop at the crossing to tell you when to come ahead and another car comes up behind you, what does the driver behind you do?

He blows his horn.
There isn't any sense to that, so far as you can see.

You are as eager as anybody to go ahead. Only the certainty of paying a fine or the danger of the cop shooting you is holding you back.

Nevertheless all the drivers of the machines joining the line back of you blow their horns lustily.

There is a great din.
All about nothing.
Why do people do that? you will ask, since it is clearly idiotic.

Because, gentle reader, ours is the age of movement.
If we are not moving we are in a great state.

Our great-grandmothers could sit in a chimney corner and smoke a pipe without stirring for hours on end.

Now the leopards' honker in a line of waiting cars is as likely as not, a little old lady.

You notice it some time.
She farts her head this way and that, paces her engine, blows her horn, makes her Ford tremble all over and acts as if she were about to scream.

She is probably going to a meeting to put the kibosh on tobacco.

Thus do times change.
We have seen the dreamers and the lady managers.
There are more to come.

Very well.
Now let us see what happens when the crossing is open.

Everybody stands on the gas and flashes past.
Except the little old lady in the Ford coupe.

In her impatience to be on her way to the anti-tobacco meeting—
After all the honking—
And all the 'bl' 'm's—
She kills her engine and blocks traffic for 10 minutes down four blocks of street.

Notice it some time.

He "kyivered" With a Rock.
(Monroe County No. Appeal.)

Tom White, near Strother, enjoyed the Horse Editor's reminiscences about corn planting in Monroe County. One method, he says, was over-worked. He used to see Uncle Jo Keith do it that way.

First, a furrow would be run with a one-horse plow and into it the corn would be dropped. A large flat stone was then dragged down the furrow, pulling the dirt over the seed.

Uncle Jo refused to fall for any new-fangled ways. As long as he kept in the farming game he "kyivered" with his flat rock. But there was a sad sequel to this story. Uncle Jo spent his last days in the poorhouse, probably as a martyr to his flat rock and inefficient methods.

The man who conceived the idea of foisting this sort of thing on the American public should occupy the same place in the nation's esteem as Andrew Volstead. Gold derbies and muted trumpets. Valid trap drummers and two pianos. Grinning bandits and a rack of saw-phases. "Three O'clock in the Morning" played with a "these-rubes-ought-to-like-this" air and trick lights. IN the milk.
And the dust
And the grime
Seemed to coil
In the air.
In the rhyme
Of machines—
I saw you:
Your proud head high.
Your velvet sweeping
In a holy carelessness
In care.

You passed and left
The wealth of gardens.
Then, the truck boy said:
"Da Lady—she visit—da shop."

That day,
The war,
The years are away
In tears.

The hands that were broken and proud
With that toil
Are lost in the pride of their whiteness—
No soil
In this working—at counters!

And yet—
This morning,
Your face
Your rhythm and grace
In your velvet and green—rose quickly
And sent!

The whirl and the bang
Of the shop loudly rang
And the minutes—Gled back in the years—
I'm hearing today.

The "da" boy say:

STRAW VOTING.

From the New York Evening Post.

ONCE more the straw vote is being pressed into service and readers are called upon to say why Jones runs ahead of Smith in the East, North Central States, while Smith leaves Jones far behind in the Mountain States in a total of 5737 ballots.

It is a fascinating game, from which you may draw almost any inference you please and no conclusions. If your favorite is running well, peer down on the list, people are evidently reluctant to vote. There have been straw votes that forecast the result, but there have been extremely few, if any, that told the observer anything he did not know from ordinary sources of information.

We may as well acknowledge that the straw vote is not particularly useful as a barometer. Its value lies upon a higher plane. As in 1920, it may tell you much about the relative chances of Hoover and Johnson for the Republican nomination for President, but as a conversation starter it has few equals.

No book on "How to Be at Home in the Homes of the Great" ought to be allowed to leave the printer's without having a chapter on the conversational possibilities of the straw vote.

How many voters would vote the same way today that they voted last week? How many would have voted for somebody else if they had thought he was going to do so well? How many indulge in the luxury of voting for a man when they admire in the opposite party but whom they would never dream of voting for in preference to the candidate of their own party, whoever he may happen to be? And always there is the interesting question of how likely it is that the vote taken in a reflection of the total vote, the bulk of which no straw ballot can record. Anybody who cannot find material for conversation in such questions as these might as well stay at home and take a straw vote with himself as to how he would prefer to spend the evening.

WILSON, N. C., May 31.—(AP.)—Claude Kitchin, 48, old, formerly minority leader in the House of Representatives during the period of American participation in the World War, died at 6:14 a. m. Death had been expected here three days and he began shortly before midnight.

At the bedside when he died Mrs. Kitchin, Mrs. Lewis daughter; Mills Kitchin, a son; Dr. Thurman Kitchin, a son who had been with him three nights.

Burial at Scotland Neck. The body will be taken to his old home at Scotland Neck where the funeral will be held. Arrangements for the funeral have been completed, but it is expected to take place tomorrow afternoon.

Dr. C. A. Woodard said Kitchin's death was the culmination of complications which developed after he suffered a stroke of paralysis in 1920. He had never been in health since. Dr. Woodard, although the turn for the worst came until about three ago.

During his long months of illness Kitchin always maintained bright and courageous disposition. From the moment he was hospitalized here hundreds of from near and far visited him and he greeted them all cordially. A warm handshake and broad smile were the culmination of his efforts. Shortly after his paralysis in April 1920, a few days after he had delivered a speech in Congress on the peace treaty, he was quickly removed to the Cape Fear hospital. He returned to his home in December, but did not remain for many weeks before he began to deteriorate and he again was forced to his bed.

Underwent an Operation. On the advice of his physician, Kitchin entered a hospital at Albany, N. Y., where he underwent an operation which was successful. Shortly after his return from Albany to Washington, he was again attacked with diarrhea and last year he returned home at Scotland Neck.

While at Scotland Neck, Kitchin contracted a pneumonia which developed into pleurisy. Little hope was held out for recovery during this illness.

Continued to take a long time to recover. He was, however, him with a stomach trouble gradually grew worse.

Kitchin Kept Smiling in the Bitter Debate. In the 28 years of his service in the House of Representatives, Kitchin was known for his leadership in the Democratic control.

Kitchin never once lost his temper. He was a man of a kind of bitter and store-bought. His big, red, red eyes were lighted with a smile as he slaughtered the Democrats and Republicans often declared that he was the best debater in the House before the country.

Back in the days when he was struggling young North C. lawyer, Kitchin's temper was that of a wild man, as he expressed it. One day a trial justice decided a case in his favor and Kitchin started to elude the Court. It was an exciting moment.

"And then it suddenly occurred," he told friends later, "I expected to get along I had lost on my head and a bridge long. Right then and there I would never get me anybody again."

The late James R. Mann, a representative from Illinois, often crossed swords with Kitchin in the House, declared on the eve of the latter's retirement as a leader that he was the best debater because his attacks, like in a lower, were wrapped in a trial justice decided a case in his favor and Kitchin started to elude the WILSON, N. C., May 21.—Representative Claude Kitchin, 54 years old, formerly minority leader in the lower House of Representatives, and during the period of American participation in the World War, majority leader, died at 6:14 a. m. today. Death had been expected hourly for three days and he began sinking shortly before midnight.

At the bedside when he died were Mrs. Kitchin, Mrs. Lewis Suter, daughter; Mills Kitchin, a son, and Dr. Thurman Kitchin, a brother who had been with him throughout the night.

Burial at Scotland Neck.
The body will be taken to Kitchin's old home at Scotland Neck, where the funeral will be held. Arrangements for the funeral have not been completed, but it is expected to take place tomorrow afternoon.

Dr. C. A. Woodward said Kitchin's death was the culmination of complications which developed after he suffered a stroke of paralysis in 1920. He had never been in good health since. Dr. Woodward stated, although the turn for the worst did not come until about three weeks ago.

During his long months of suffering Kitchin always maintained a bright and courageous disposition. From the moment he entered the hospital here, hundreds of friends from near and far visited him and he greeted them all cordially with a warm handshake and broad smile.

Kitchin suffered a slight stroke of paralysis in April, 1920, a few minutes after he had delivered a speech in Congress on the peace resolution. He was quickly removed from the Capitol to his Washington home. He returned to his seat in December, but did not remain long for dizzy spells began to bother him and he again was forced to go to his home.

Underwent an Operation.
On the advice of his physicians, Mr. Kitchin entered a hospital at Albany, N. Y., where he underwent an operation which was pronounced successful. Shortly after his return from Albany to Washington he again was attacked with dizzy spells and last year he returned to his home at Scotland Neck, Halifax County, to take a long rest.

While at Scotland Neck last winter, Kitchin contracted influenza which developed into pneumonia. Little hope was held out for his recovery during this illness, but he survived. This illness, however, left him with a stomach trouble which gradually grew worse.

Kitchin kept smiling in thick of Bitter Debate.
In the 20 years of his services in the House of Representatives, including four years as the leader during the Democratic control, Claude Kitchin never once lost his temper in the thick of bitter and stormy debate. His big, round, red face always was lighted with a smile or a grin "as he slaughtered the enemy," and Republicans often declared that Kitchin kept smiling "as he operated on them before the country."

Back in the days when he was a struggling young North Carolina lawyer, Kitchin's temper was like that of a wild man, as he himself expressed it. One day a country justice decided to sue against him and Kitchin started to clean up the Court. It was an exciting moment.

"And then it suddenly occurred to me," he told friends later, "that if I expected to get along I had to put it on my head and a bridge on my tongue. Right then and there I decided I would never get mad with anybody again."

The late James R. Mann, a veteran representative from Illinois, who often crossed swords with Kitchin in the House, declared on the occasion of the latter's retirement as Democratic leader, that he was vicious in debate because his attacks, like brick in a towel, were wrapped in smiles.

Voted Against War.
Kitchin's greatest fight with his legislative conscience came when the House was called upon to declare war against the German Government in 1917. Congress was widely split. Word passed back and forth among members that the majority leader would vote against it. Later, on the afternoon of April 6, members of the leader's family and sons of his mother, who were with him at the time, were told that he had voted for war, that the right of leader because of it would be challenged, but that he didn't care, because his heart spoke against it.

Then he went to the House chamber with every eye and a vast throng in the gallery—and during a tense and dramatic moment took his stand against war.

But once war was declared, Kitchin threw his support, wholeheartedly, into the fight, and championed every move by the Government for victory. There were times, it was said, when he was at odds with President Wilson at White House conferences, but his political enemies never doubted his patriotism after the weight of American arms had been thrown on the side of the allies.

Put Over Revenue Bill.
In the early days of 1919 Kitchin, when a Republican House, elected the preceding fall, was waiting to come into power, went to the front as the party leader with the biggest war revenue bill ever framed by an American Congress. He put it through, though a member of the Ways and Means Committee, which framed the bill, Kitchin had every finger at his finger tips. Fordney of Michigan, who succeeded him as chairman of the committee, fought him at every step.

It was during the revenue bill debate, while the House was considering a luxury tax on shirts, that Kitchin, standing before hundreds of well-dressed men, declared he never had paid more than $2 for a shirt in his life. His plea for simplicity in dress while the country was burdened with the big cost of war was taken up by the press, and $2 shirts were urged.

Not long after the big revenue bill fight Kitchin was stricken. For a long time he lay in bed, trying to get well, but it was not an easy thing for a man, so long in public life, to shake off the old habit. Feeling better, he went back to the old grind, only to be stricken again. A new party had come into power.

Cham Clark, stepping down from the speaker's chair, became minority leader, with Kitchin as ranking member of the Ways and Means Committee. When Champ Clark died, Kitchin was made minority leader, but being ill then at his home in North Carolina, he asked that Ennis J. Garrett, of Tennessee, be designated as acting leader, in the effort to keep the dwindling ranks of Democrats in line.

Son of a Congressman.
Claude Kitchin who was born March 24, 1858, first came to Congress in 1891, serving continuously thereafter. On the closing night of that Congress—the 57th—he attracted attention by a fiery speech against French spoliation claims. From that day his reputation as a House debater was made. He was born in the district he represented. He was the son of a Congressman, and his brother, William W. Kitchin, served five terms in the House prior to his election as Governor of North Carolina.

During a hot political campaign in his district in 1898, Kitchin attracted public attention by taking an active part in what was known as "the red shirt movement," a rivalry of Democratic tactics in some Southern States in reconstruction times. It was organized by the white people, chiefly Democrats, for the avowed purpose of eliminating the negro in politics and office holding. But its purposes were peaceful. Thousands rode to the first public meeting in Kitchin's district in red huggies, or horses draped with red, wearing red shirts, red hats, some even digging up the old red trousers of fox-hunting days. The speech made by Kitchin put him in line for the House, and he won the first time up.

LONDON, May 21.—A ripple of laughter in which many Americans joined, the audience at His Majesty's Theatre last night at the premiere of John Drinkwater's "Oliver Cromwell," when Henry Ainley, in the title role proclaimed: "I respect not such ill reason as should keep all wine out of the country lest men shall be drunk."

The line was delivered with others showing Cromwell's love of good fellowship, music and dancing even in the stern days when he was organizing the revolt against Charles I. However, the audience evidently thought it was an indirect hit at the United States.

The play shows all phases of Cromwell as a leader of popular revolt from recruiting to cavalry leader. One of the stirring scenes is in the King's Cabinet, when Cromwell, after the victory of the Roundhead Army, catches Charles still plotting against Parliament and starts proceedings which cost the King his head. At the moment of beheading Cromwell tells his mother he loves another King will come to rule England, but only by consent of the people.

Drinkwater was called before the curtain many times by the applause of the audience.

100 LITTLE PATIENTS ARE RESCUED IN FIRE

Children, Mostly Cripples, Safely Removed From Hospital
in Pittsburg.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 21.—The Children's Hospital of Pittsburg was destroyed by fire today. More than 100 little patients, most of them crippled, were moved to the Magee Maternity Hospital nearby. So far as the authorities were able to determine, there was no loss of life.

The main building, built many years ago and widely known as the center of a number of frame wings built as the needs of the hospital increased. The fire started in one of the wings and spread rapidly. Nurses, marshaled under the superintendent and reinforced by workmen from factories nearby, carried out the children while a dozen or more automobiles from residents drove close to the burning buildings and carried them to the other hospital a few blocks away.

Four firemen were injured when the roof of the administration building fell in and two of them were taken to a hospital unconscious. A policeman was overcome by formaldehyde fumes. The fire started by the explosion of a water heater. The loss was estimated at $25,000.

Testimony on a petition for extradition was that his wife, Mrs. Jones, was in comfortable circumstances. Jones testified that he had sent his wife $500 monthly since leaving her. Mrs. Jones declared that she had received only $1200, but admitted ownership of a home valued at $40,000. Jones blamed business enemies for his arrest.

WOMEN VOTERS TO SEE 'NANOOK' FILM TONIGHT

Members of League to Be Patronesses at Performance in Which Ice Fund Will Benefit.

This evening has been designated as "special night" for the League of Women Voters at the Pershing Theater where "Nanook of the North" is being shown under the auspices of the St. Louis Motion Picture Council. Part of the proceeds of the week accrue to the Post-Dispatch Free Ice for Babies' Milk Fund. Patronesses for tonight include Mrs. D. O. Ives, Roscoe Anderson, M. Davis Thompson, Everts Graham, Irwin Bettman, Aaron Reub, William Sheville, J. T. Addis, M. J. Gill, Alex Goodwin and Miss Florence Weigel.

Mrs. D. O. Ives, chairman of the Reviewing Committee of the Motion Picture Council, commenting on "Nanook" says: "If thrills are wanted, they are in Nanook and to spare, if accurate, faithful portrayal of the daily life of an almost unknown people, it is to be found there also. Robert J. Flaherty, producer of "Nanook" lived for three years among the Eskimos and his years of hardship and endurance have so enriched history and geography that the Nanook film has been gratefully received as a gift from the Pathe company, by the New York Natural History Museum as a great contribution to its marvelous Eskimo collection. The Motion Picture Council has a large and representative reviewing committee, which has been actively at work for the last two months. The council makes its first official appearance in St. Louis in its enthusiastic endorsement of Nanook of the North. All citizens who care about St. Louis babies sweating in the heat or are interested in the movement for better motion pictures, are urged not to miss seeing the film."

Hungarian Jews Denounce Ford.
By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, May 31.—A resolution denouncing Henry Ford as "a menace to the peace and prosperity of the inhabitants of the land," and pleading for his elimination from the presidential race, was adopted yesterday at the convention of the Federation of Hungarian Jews in America.

SCIENCE TRYING TO ADD LIGNITE CHAR TO FUEL SUPPLY

By the Associated Press.
MONTREAL, May 31.—Science's quest for a method that will add lignite char to the available fuel supplies of the United States was described at a session of the Fuels Division of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers here today by O. P. Hood, chief mechanical engineer of the U. S. Bureau of Mines.
The Bureau of Mines is investigating the possibilities of a program," said Hood, "which has for its main features an inexpensive carbonizing device and the use of the lignite char direct, without briquetting."
Lignite char can best be described in a few words as a fuel rather near in analysis to anthracite coal, but softer, with a little more volatile matter, and thus kindling easier. In size it grades from pea coal to smaller sizes, and is a stable product. Whether a market can be developed for such a fuel at prices around $5 a ton at the mine, remains to be shown.
"This fuel burns well with natural draft where a thin fuel bed can be maintained. Base burners, cook stoves, and other heaters can be adapted to use the fuel satisfactorily."

KATZ DESCRIBES HIS "HIGH FINANCE" DEALS

he readily admitted he owed the money. He said he pointed to the mortgages, insurance policies and a blank signed note, which he said he had put up as collateral.
Finance Commissioner Millsap, several days ago filed suits for $70,000 on the insurance policies covering the three barges lost in the Gulf storm. The suits are against the Globe & Rutgers Fire Insurance Co. of New York.
It was just about the time the bank failed, Katz testified, that he got his business of hauling Mexican oil going. He had told Meininger, he said, that he expected to make from $40,000 to $50,000 a month at the business, but it did not materialize. Instead of oil the Mexican wells began producing salt water.
It was at this stage of the proceeding that Katz was asked to relate some of the deals from which he had made money, and it was this testimony that occasioned studied interest and then laughter on the part of the jury and spectators.
"I made money buying and junking old buildings and scrapping machinery," Katz testified.
Profits in Boat Deals.
"I bought a barge in Philadelphia, paying $11,000 for it. I wanted it in St. Louis, so I got a cargo of automobile trucks. I got $5500 for transporting them, and when the barge reached St. Louis I sold it to the Government barge line for $18,000." This deal gave Katz a profit of something more than 100 per cent.
"I bought a Lee line boat and its landings for $15,000," Katz continued.
"The Lee line bought the landings back for $20,000, and I sold the boat for $28,000."
"I bought a boat in Kansas City for $20,000 and sold it for $25,000."
"I bought a ferry boat from the Wiggins Ferry Co. for $20,000 and sold it for $25,000."
"I sold the Government all kinds of things for its barge line and I was making so much money I couldn't count it."
Laughter swept through the court room, and Katz, in evident surprise at the commotion caused by his testimony, ejaculated: "Well, I did."
The confidence of the prosecution, which was considerably shaken yesterday by the attack of the defense on the failure to prove by direct evidence that Meininger profited from the Katz deals, was restored last night by Judge Breuer's refusal to sustain a demurrer. Sidener said he was confident that if the case went to the jury there would be a verdict of conviction.
Judge's Remarks.
Judge Breuer, passing on the demurrer, said:
"This is a very close question. There is some doubt in my mind as to whether it ought to go to the jury, but in a case of this character it cannot be shown that the defendant went to the cash drawer and took out cash. Charges of this character are impossible to sustain except on circumstantial evidence. They must be considered in the light of all the circumstances. This is a close question in my mind, but I think it is a matter for the jury."
Before passing on the demurrer Judge Breuer sustained a motion to require the State to elect whether it would proceed on the grand larceny or the embezzlement charge. Sidener decided to elect the embezzlement count. The Court overruled a motion to require the State to choose one of the 23 "cash items" which formed the total of $174,000 on which the indictment was based, and to proceed only on one of the items.
The mother of Henry J. Kampschmidt, one of the jurors, died yesterday at her home in Beaufort. Kampschmidt was permitted to go home to see her the previous night, but was not present when she died. The funeral will be delayed until after the end of the trial. Kampschmidt having consented not to ask to be excused from the jury, which would have made necessary a retrial of the case.

The GREATEST CORD IMPROVEMENTS of Recent Years!

These Miller developments make satisfactory service sure!

It takes more than good materials to give a satisfactory tire mileage. They must be so evenly balanced that you get full value from every one!

Uniform Cord Construction

For years, tire builders have considered it impossible to lay cords evenly on a tire. Some layers would be shorter than others. These short layers would break first.

By a distinctive process, Miller Tires are built with absolutely uniform cord construction. The strain of wear is evenly distributed over the entire carcass.

Flat Top Tread and Supple Carcass

The Miller flat tread and balanced, supple carcass still further increase the mileage of Miller Tires. These features reduce friction in the carcass—give more road contact and longer life in tread and carcass.

You cannot get all of these advantages in any other tire. That is why Miller Cords always save you money—time—trouble, in passenger and commercial use. Authorized Miller dealers insure proper treatment.

LIFEBUOY SOAP
Purify hands and face with Lifebuoy before the evening romp.

Mothers The World Over Know That Lifebuoy Protects Health

Lifebuoy Health Soap is one of Science's great contributions to the health of humankind.
Because it fights and destroys the invisible dangers ever present in dirt—one of the great causes of sickness and skin poisoning.
Most medical discoveries are to cure sickness—Lifebuoy's work is in preventing sickness. To keep well is better than to be cured.
The Daily Danger
Your husband is constantly in contact with germ-polluted things. Be careful that he purifies hands and face before the evening romp.
You cannot keep children away from dirt. They touch everything. Their playmates may live where contagious diseases exist. The dust which covers face and hands is almost certainly laden with dangerous germs. And children's hands are constantly in mouth, eyes and hair.
Mothers, you know by its antiseptic odor that Lifebuoy does more than merely remove surface dirt like ordinary soap. Its rich, creamy lather works down deep into the pores of the skin and provides sanitary protection against the dangers in dirt.
Mothers are Health Doctors
See to it that your children and husband wash thoroughly and often every inch of exposed skin. Have them use it for bath and shampoo.
Lifebuoy is as pure as soap can be made and contains the most health-promoting oils. Pure, unbleached palm-fruit oil, one of its chief ingredients, is red—so Lifebuoy is red. The creamy quality of the lather is due to coconut oil, one of Nature's choicest skin foods.
Lifebuoy is so bland and pure that it cannot irritate the most delicate skin. It is wonderful for the complexion. It keeps babies' skin in perfect condition. It is the favorite soap of most men.
The Protection Remains
You soon come to like Lifebuoy's pungent, sanative odor for its suggestion of perfect cleanliness. The odor vanishes in a few seconds but the protection remains.

4 PERSONS HURT WHEN MOTOR CYCLE IS UPSET

Accident Occurs When Auto Driver Turns Out to Pass Another on Riverview Drive.

Four persons were injured, three seriously, when a motor cycle and side car driven by George Richie Jr., 14 years old, 2412 Bellegarde avenue, in which all four were riding, was knocked over at 11 o'clock last night in front of 3709 Riverview drive by an automobile coming in the opposite direction. All were taken to city hospital by passing motorists.

Nevada Parker, 15, 4532 Madison avenue, suffered minor bruises and was taken to her home.

How Accident Occurred.
The accident occurred when Richie, driving south in Riverview drive, turned out to pass an automobile immediately ahead when a machine coming north struck his motor cycle. The driver of the machine was Herman Rosenblatt Jr., 25, 4334 Albee avenue. He was not arrested.

Mrs. Esther Gladstone, 31, 13784 Bard avenue, suffered injuries to her left hip and minor bruises at 5:15 p. m. when struck in front of 5318 Bacon avenue by an automobile driven by Samuel Friedman, 1924 Sample avenue. She was taken to her home. Her condition is not serious.

Elmer Hughes, 4, 4957 Olive street, suffered bruises about the body and lacerations of the scalp when knocked down by a machine at noon in front of 348 North Seventh street.

Girl Brought Home Hurt.
Joseph Smith, 2424 West Pine boulevard, reported to police that a woman drove up in front of his home Tuesday afternoon, accosted his daughter, Katherine, 1 year old, from the car, and drove away. He ran down the porch, he said, and found her in a dazed condition and took her to a doctor who said that she had suffered a fractured collarbone and cuts and bruises. Katherine attends the Marquette School. The woman has not returned.

Another woman, he said, came to his house Wednesday and inquired as to Katherine's condition but refused to divulge either her own name or the name of the woman who drove the car. She said that the driver would "come around later."

HOBO Kidney & Bladder Remedy Got Results

"Bingham, La., Oct. 8, 1932.
You ask me to write and tell you what the Hobo has done for my son. It sure has cured him of Bright's disease but he took 2 or 3 bottles before we could tell it was doing him any good.
Now he is as well as he ever was. He still takes a little along about once or two bottles during the year. He took about 10 bottles of the Hobo medicine.
R. M. Flowers."

Late in the winter of 1913 Homer Flowers was suffering from what the family doctor said was "Bright's Disease." The story of his taking Hobo and the complete recovery that followed has been told in our advertising since that time. The letter above was written in answer to an inquiry of another sufferer addressed to Homer Flowers' father.

Hobo Kidney and Bladder Remedy is an herb remedy—it contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs—gets results and leaves no bad after effects. Druggists sell Hobo for $1.20 per bottle.

vacation comfort in footwear all summer long

Everywhere you see them today—light, cool, easy-fitting Keds!

In footwear, as in clothing, millions are now enjoying country club comfort—the luxury of vacation freedom—all summer long.

Keds let the feet, cramped by months of hard, stiff shoes, return to their natural form and breathe. This freedom is especially fine for the growing muscles of children. Famous foot specialists say that Keds are scientifically correct for all normal feet.

Why you should insist on Keds

Keds are the standard by which all canvas rubber-soled shoes are judged. Their quality is backed by the skill and experience of the largest rubber company in the world.

Keds are made in many styles—high shoes and low, pumps, oxfords and sandals—styles for men and women, girls and boys.

Keds, of course, vary in price according to type. But no matter what kind of Keds you buy, every pair gives you the highest possible value at the price.

Remember—while there are other shoes that may at first glance look like Keds—no other shoe can give you real Keds value. Keds are made only by the United States Rubber Company. If the name Keds isn't on the shoes, they aren't real Keds.

FORMER OLYMPIC STARS PUT ON SPIES AGAIN FOR CELTIC CARNIVAL

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 31.—The glorious olden days of American track and field competition were revived yesterday when Olympic and National champions, members of the Irish-American Athletic Club, many of them world's record holders in their day, put on the spikes again to take part in the twenty-first anniversary celebration of the club at Celtic Park.

Not since the heyday of the Irish-American club, when they conquered champions from the byways of New York, has the old park seen such a collection of stars.

Among the "old timers" who appeared, some of them for the first time in a decade, were Mel Shoup, Pat McDonald, Matt McGrath, George Bonham, Joseph Bromie, Harry Gillingham, Lawson Robertson, Sam Schwartz, Abel Kiviat, Jim Rosenberger, Alvin Meyer, Eddie Pritchard, Billy Frank, Meyer, Edinette and Mike Ryan.

Midweek, now, and without the speed and wind they had when representing the United States in the Olympic games in Athens, London and Stockholm, in 1906, 1908 and 1912, the former athletes confined their efforts to exhibition performance.

The exhibitions were preceded by a track meet for younger members.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 31.—Tommy Milton's spectacular victory in yesterday's 500-mile automobile race, the first time any driver has ever won the event the second time, was the subject of much comment among automobile experts today. They point out the fact that eight of 10 cars finishing in the money, including the first seven in order, were of American make, the proof that the United States still maintains the superiority in mechanical designs gained during the war.

It is more remarkable, they say, in that while the quest of European designers, after the best possible small light car of low gasoline consumption is prompted by the direct necessity, the interest of American designers is purely a theoretical one. No real necessity of the building of small cars confronts the United States for several years to come.

That the tiny 122 cubic inch piston engine, which is the smallest of themselves capable of all asked of them, also was the consensus of automobile men. The fact that numerous cars were forced out early in the race, through mechanical and engine trouble, means little for these defects may promptly be remedied, the experts say. That the tiny racers could stand the grind of the 500-mile derby and come through in such excellent condition was a matter of astonishment. Drivers of the foreign made speed creations, had no comment to make regarding the relatively poor showing of their cars.

Whether Indianapolis will stage another race, was uncertain. Rumors have been current that the Speedway officials, alarmed at the anti-sport memorial day bill, passed by the Indiana Legislature, but vetoed by Gov. McCray have been seeking a site to which they might move the track. Cleveland is reported to have made bids for the next race.

The death of Hubert Shoup, 16-year-old Lafayette, (Ind.), school boy who sustained fatal injuries when Ten Alley's car plunged through a fence during the race, is the first fatality at the Speedway since 1919 when three drivers and mechanics lost their lives. Alley was reported today as resting easily.

Ideal racing weather prevailed yesterday and a record breaking crowd turned out to witness the event. The official attendance was announced as more than 150,000 persons.

Milton was exuberant over the outcome in which he shattered the track "jinx" of winning the local event twice.

Harry Hartz was second. He finished in the same position last year. Jimmy Murphy, winner of the event last year, placed in third position; Eddie Hearne, fourth; L. L. Corram, fifth; Elliott sixth; Durant seventh; Saller, eighth; De Cysteria, ninth; Shafer, tenth.

It Appears That Pinkey Mitchell and the Chicago Boxing Game Were Simultaneously Knocked Out

Enemies Nose Cardinals Out of Close Games; Club's Fine Punch Offset by Deplorable Defense

In Recent Series With Reds the Rickeymen Lost Two Battles by One Run and Were Shut Out in Another, Winning Only One Contest Out of the Four Played.

By Dent McSkimming.

The Cardinal club has come to be recognized as a team of unrelenting hitters. When this team, which leads the league in batting, suddenly wilts and loses games by one run and is even shut out without a tally, the effect is most oppressive.

In the series concluded yesterday with the Cincinnati Reds, the Cardinals were nosed out by one run in two of the games; lost another on a shutout and won a single game by a one-run margin.

Games can be won with a mere run or two—by some ball clubs. The Cardinals are so constituted that hitting preponderance is absolutely essential to victory. The pitching staff is not so good nor is the defense in the field so reliable as to permit of many 1 to 0 victories.

For several seasons the pitching has been unreliable, at times worse. To nullify weak pitching Manager Eickley has gathered unto himself the hardest hitters he can find. Where he had to choose between a good fielder who could not hit and a poor fielder who could slug the ball, he chose the slugger.

Last season his team ripped and clubbed its way to a position close to the top of the league standing. This season, again, the hitting onslaught prevailed even against the best clubs of the league. But, when the occasion arises where the batting punch is absent, the Cardinals revert to a team of mediocre fielders and weak pitchers.

Cardinal Defense Fails.

That is precisely what happened in the series just closed. The Cardinals committed 8 errors in 4 games. The Reds were only one-half so bad, committing 4 errors. The Cardinals pitchers were blamed for 41 hits, an average of 10 per game. It would have taken a deal of consistent hitting by Rickey's batters to overcome the advantage obtained by the enemy through 41 hits, 8 bases on balls and 2 hit batsmen.

In the first game of the series the bases were filled with none out and

Yanks Won 17 Out of 20 Road Games

Huggins' Men Lost Only One Series and That Was to the Rejuvenated Athletics.

CHICAGO, May 31.—

With the American League Eastern teams returning to their home lots and the National League Eastern clubs starting the Western invasion today, the Yankees, still well at the top of their list, returned home with the best record ever hung up by a Yankee team on an out-of-town assignment. They start their home stand against the Boston Red Sox today.

The American League champions captured 17 of the 20 contests played against four Western and two Eastern teams. They lost only one series during the trip, that to Philadelphia, winning one of three games.

The Yankees made a clean sweep of the series with the exception of Detroit, the Tigers taking one game of four.

SIKI DECIDES TO STAY IN HIS OWN BACK YARD

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, May 31.—Battling Siki has refused an offer of $10,000 cabled him by Tex Rickard for a bout with Kid Norfolk late in July or early in August. The reason advanced for the refusal is that Siki is to meet Marcel Nilles in Paris on July 8, but The Senegalese confided to his friends that he would never again fight outside of continental Europe. He believes he was unjustly treated when he met Mike McTigue in Dublin.

Score of 85 Expected to Qualify For the District Golf Tournament

Jimmy Manion Leads Shooters in Practice Round With 73 and Probably Will Be Favorite—Sunshine Needed to Dry Out Fairways—Par for Algonquin Is 71.

By J. Roy Stockton.

Golfers who will compete in the St. Louis District Golf Association tournament which will open Saturday at the Algonquin Club, welcomed the warm sunshine of the last two days. The course is in fine condition for the competition; the fairways are smooth and the greens are velvety and sleek. But better scores will prevail if the sun shines enough to dry out the fairways a bit. The course is well drained and there are no puddles, no casual water or bogs, but a wee bit of a roll will help.

Golfers who think that Clarence Wolff's district crown would fit them very prettily swarmed to Algonquin Monday and Tuesday to practice for the tournament. Jimmy Manion reported a 73 for 18 holes, which was about the best total recorded in the practice rounds. Eddie Held had a 78, Stuart Stickney said he was "about 80" and Dick Bockenkamp, who was practicing assiduously, also was about that figure.

Chris Kenney of Sunset was taking his way around and making some spectacular shots. The "old war horse" will be a title contender again. He always puts out some aspiring stars and will be one of the most respected representatives of the old guard.

A Quartet From Normandy. Normandy was well represented in the practice rounds. Bob Dunn, Frank Montgomery, Vance Higgs and Joe Casey formed a foursome and the quartet hopes to land intact in the championship flight.

Donald and Elmer Harrison, Algonquin professionals, expect that an 86 will qualify for the championship class. That is a rather liberal allowance, but the Harrison brothers base that estimate on the scores that have been reported during the spring play.

Par for the course is 71. Experience of the golfers in the practice rounds thus far indicates that victory in most cases will go to the shot maker, rather than to the long driver. With the fairways not too fast there will not be much carry, but even so most of the par four holes are within reach of the average shooter's second shot. It even will be possible for the erratic driver to turn in a fine score. In many cases yesterday pars and birdies were scored by shooters who had deviated far from mid fairway on their tee shots.

The Cry of "Out of Bounds."

Fairways are fairly wide in most cases, although here and there are holes where out of bounds and trouble are so close to the preferred line of flight that one inaccurate shot may spoil a good round. On No. 4, for instance, out of bounds is nearby on the right and the worst part of it is that the fairway rolls abruptly into the road on that side, so that a shot that drops three or four feet inside is likely to skid into the road, the near side of which is the boundary. That No. 4 is one where a straight shot is necessary, as a deep bunker is just to the left of mid-fairway, to penalize a hook. A safe way on this hole, for the timid golfer, is to bear far to the left, as an open fairway there opens up a

St. Louis Boys Go To Big Ten Games

Allen Lincoln of Missouri and Joe Bier of Washington Seek Western Titles.

Allen Lincoln of Missouri University and Joe Bier of Washington University are two St. Louis district athletes who will compete in the Western Conference championship games at Ann Arbor, Mich., tomorrow and Saturday.

Although an eleventh-hour decision changed the plans of Missouri to send a team of six men, it was later decided to send only Lincoln, later will compete in the discus throw against the great hurlers of the Middle West.

Lincoln annually wins this event in the Valley Conference games. He won it at the recent Ames meet with a toss of over 134 feet.

Lincoln, who was in St. Louis today on his way to Michigan, said he figured it would take 140 feet to win. He himself has surpassed this figure frequently in practice.

It will be the last intercollegiate competition in which Lincoln will participate. His three years of eligibility will expire with the present school term. Lincoln's home is at Webster Groves.

Bier of Washington will be accompanied to Ann Arbor by Coach Rider. Bier won the 440-yard dash at Ames in 49.4-5 seconds and expects to place at Ann Arbor. He was anchor man for both Washington's winning relay teams at Ames. There is no half-mile relay event on the Ann Arbor program, hence this year's crack pickaway team was not sent.

CHICAGO, May 31.—Teams from Western Conference Schools were departing for Ann Arbor, Mich., where the twenty-third annual track and field meet of the Big Ten will be held tomorrow and Saturday. A struggle for the championship between Michigan and Illinois is predicted.

Shelby Arena to Be Ready Early

Structure Reported to Be 35 Per Cent Completed at the Present Time.

GREAT FALLS, Mont., May 31.—There will be an addition to the already large collection of pets at the Dempsey zoo when the champion returns from his fishing outing tomorrow. The world's heavyweight champion yesterday climbed high into the cliffs of the Rocky Mountains near Charles Powers' Rock Creek camp and captured alive an enormous eagle.

Thirty-five per cent of the work on the construction of the huge arena where Dempsey and Gibbons will battle for supremacy July 4 is already accomplished.

Workers are progressing rapidly on the structure and assurance has been given by the contractors that it will be completed several days in advance of the bout.

Reservations to Be Made. SHELBLY, Mont., May 31.—Tommy Gibbons of St. Paul, challenger for the heavyweight championship of the world here July 4, looked over the arena grounds last evening, made arrangements for his training quarters and left for St. Paul last night to bring his family to Shelby. He will return here Saturday and then will depart for a three-day exhibition at Calgary, Lethbridge and Regina, in Canada, and expects to be back to start training here June 5.

Tickets for the big fight arrived here today and will be distributed at once, reservations having been marked down for $200,000 worth of seats.

The arena is nearly half completed and the last trainload of lumber arrived yesterday. Another attempted strike proved abortive on this arena yesterday morning, $6 per day for common labor and time and a half for overtime being demanded by the local union. The rate being paid is 60 cents an hour. Six men out of 150 walked off the job and the work went on.

Texan Golfer Trying Today to Establish New Endurance Record

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., May 31.—LAWRENCE MANGHAM, San Antonio golf professional, was nearing the completion of his third round of the 18-hole Brackenridge Park municipal course here at 8:30 in his attempt to play 10 rounds before dark and set a new marathon golf record. He was playing remarkable golf although he kept his caddies at a trot. On his first round he played a 73 and his second was 81. The air is heavy and the marathon golfer was wringing wet with perspiration but grinning and striding strongly.

JEFFRIES PLANS TO SEE GIBBONS-DEMPESEY BOUT. By the Associated Press. LOS ANGELES, May 31.—James J. Jeffries, former heavyweight champion boxer, announced that he planned to go to Shelby, Mont., to see the match between Jack Dempsey, heavyweight champion, and Tom Gibbons of St. Paul. Jeffries said he believed Gibbons had a chance to win. He also said he thought Luis Angel Firpo, Argentine heavyweight, would defeat Jess Willard, former champion.

Polo Match Won By Country Club

St. Louis Scores 11 to 4 Victory Over Wakonda Club of Des Moines.

Accuracy on short shots and the great work of George Simmons in the open field gave the St. Louis Country Club polo team a victory over Wakonda Country Club of Des Moines yesterday at Country Club by a score of 11 to 4. M. Wallace and Edward Simmons were the scoring leaders for St. Louis with four goals each. Meadows led for Wakonda with three scores.

The first chukker was scoreless, but in the second St. Louis scored two goals to one for Wakonda. St. Louis really won the game in the third chukker with four goals, two of which were scored by Wallace.

The line-ups: Lineup. Position. Des Moines. Simmons. One. J. Huggins. M. Wallace. Two. F. Huggins. G. Simmons. Three. G. Meadows. S. Davis. Four. Parrott.

New Attendance Record Set. The Giants and Dodgers established a new National League attendance record when they played to 45,000 people at the afternoon game.

RECEIVERSHIP ACTION TIES UP KLAN FUNDS

Mismanagement by "Imperial Wizard" and Collusion With "Emperor" Charged in Petition.

By the Associated Press.
ATLANTA, Ga., May 31.—Receivership for the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan was asked for in a petition filed in the Fulton County Supreme Court today by David M. Rittenhouse and others of Philadelphia, who charged gross mismanagement to W. H. Evans, "Imperial Wizard." The petition also charged that the "Imperial Wizard" and W. J. Simmons, Klan "Emperor," entered into a collusion in settling the recent controversy involving control of the organization.

Judge Humphreys signed an order temporarily restraining the use of any Klan funds and citing the defendants to show cause before him June 9 why the petition should not be granted. Judge Humphreys also restrained the use of Klan money to pay expenses of the meeting of the "Kloneilium" called by "Imperial Wizard" Evans to meet in Washington, June 1 and 2.

The defendants likewise are temporarily enjoined from removing the headquarters of the Klan from Atlanta. Twenty other klansmen are named in the petition in addition to "Imperial Wizard" Evans and "Emperor" Simmons. The petition also charges Dr. Evans and Col. Simmons with having violated the patriotic principles and having tried to convert the Klan into a purely money-making machine.

Railroad Shares Are Firm on April Reports — Bonds Quietly Firm — German Mark Down.

German Mark at New Low.
"Trading in foreign exchange continued to be on a small scale with values showing no uniform trend.
The most interesting feature was the weakness in German marks which declined in response to reactions on the other side of the water, to a new low of 60 1/2 to 61 cents. This quotation was 2 1/2 points below Tuesday's close. Cables from abroad, meanwhile, reported rumors to the effect that the Reichsbank is contemplating the withdrawal of its support. In any event it is clear that the German Government is coming near to the end of its financial resources. Probably in sympathy with the weakness in the mark, the currencies of the continental allies displayed a heavy tone. French francs lost 2 points at 65 1/2 cents and Italian lire were 4 points lower at 4 1/2 cents. Sterling, however, held firm at $4 1/2. It would appear, therefore, as that the tendency of a few months ago, that for the currencies of the continental allies to move in sympathy with that of Germany. The sterling remained unaffected, had been re-established. Changes in other parts of the list were irregular. Canadian dollars touched a new low for the year at 97 1/2 cents and the Chinese silver exchange were weak, a circumstance which possibly is related to the Treasury's announcement that it has suspended purchase of silver under the provisions of the Pittman Act.

Foreign Bank Statements.
"The recovery in London market recently had to the Bank of England is reflected in this week's statement. Thus, the pound is $11-20,000 higher, while deposit bank notes are $800,000 greater despite a reduction of $1,177,000 in Government deposits. As a result, the ratio of reserve to 11 1/2 per cent lower at 19 per cent. The feature of the French Bank statement is an increase of 400,000,000 francs in extraordinary advances to the state. This follows an increase of 200,000,000 francs last week.

Wall Street News and Comment —SPECIAL DAILY—

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 31.—Operations in the stock market today resulted in no important change either in the market position or the general run of prices. It was strong under buying where it carried the favored industrials up a point to two points.

Then some weakness cropped out in the oil stocks and this gradually

had the effect of bringing realizing sales to the rest of the list. Baldwin and American Locomotives sold off quite sharply at the close, losing over two points from their early high. The oil group left off almost at the bottom. The rails, however, were steady and strong. For the most part, last prices varied only fractionally from the Tuesday final.

Baldwin got above 136 in the early trading, where it was up nearly 2 points, and American Locomotives had a similar gain. Later on both sold off, as did American Can, which was one of the early favorites. Mack

Trucks advanced 3 1/2, was up 13 points

from its recent low.

The Bond Market.

Bond quotations ran higher today with the greatest activity in the foreign list.

Undoubtedly this is a reflection of the interest aroused by the expected

new Austrian loan. Czechoslovak

SA moved up to a new high for the year. French Cities issues were generally traded in at substantial advances. French 7 1/2s were higher and the 8 1/2s were firm. Serbian 8s gained a point. How much of this buying was for genuine investment

account and how much in anticipation of a generally higher level for all foreign obligations cannot, of course, be said. The better feeling toward foreign bonds, however, was undoubtedly. South American descriptions were favorably affected,

notably the Rio Grande do Sul 8s and the Republic of Colombia 6 1/2s.

Paris Bourse Steady.

PARIS, May 31.—Prices on the Bourse

were steady. Three per cent bonds

57 francs 75 centimes; exchange on London,

78 francs 25 centimes; 5 per cent loan, 74

francs 25 centimes; the dollar was quoted at 125 francs.

For High-Class Sales Executive or Organization

The Williamson Heater Company of Cincinnati, an old reliable and nationally known manufacturer of heating apparatus is marketing a Gas, Gasoline or Electric Cabinet Clothes Dryer, known as "SNOW WHITE," suitable to home owners, builders, architects and dealers. Judged by merchandising experts to hold the greatest national possibilities of recent times.It dries clothes in ten minutes. Its installation makes the housewife independent of weather conditions. It eliminates the drudgery of carrying clothes outside. It permits washing and ironing to be done the same morning. In smoky communities it is indispensable. Every woman appreciates its advantages. It appeals to the professional builder, as it enhances the value of his building. It appeals to the apartment owner in eliminating the back-yard problem. To the man-erecting or owning high-grade homes it sells itself. The price is less than any other laundry equipment.Operations are being extended to this territory. Other cities operating successfully. Large publicity campaign now under way and very attractive literature compiled. Unusual factory co-operation. This is a big proposition and must be handled in a big way. Height of season will soon be here. The initial requirements for further procedure are: 1st—Sufficient capital to establish show room. 2nd—A substantial, successful sales and merchandising experience. 3rd—An unimpeachable personal record. 4th—Vision to realize the potential possibilities. To such a person or concern we can offer a mighty interesting proposition—a definite, proven plan of procedure—a real money-making opportunity.Tell us fully of your facilities and qualifications along the above lines, and

Firestone
GUM-DIPPED CORDS

(Special Telegraphic Dispatch from the Indianapolis Speedway, May 30th)

Tommy Milton in a H. C. S. Special won today on Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords at average speed of 91.44 miles per hour, being only driver in history of this race classic to win a second time. Hartz and Murphy and Cooper, who relieved Hearne, finished second, third and fourth in order named, in Durant Specials, giving clean sweep of first four places to Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords. Eight of ten cars to finish in money were Gum-Dipped Cord equipped. Not once in entire 500 miles was any driver using Firestone Cords forced to pits with flat tires.At Indianapolis were gathered the most famous drivers and the foremost racing cars of the world. It was a contest of driving skill, a competition of automotive science and a "Battle of Tires."Around this sand-surfaced brick oval, Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords swept through to victory.
The grinding wear, the scorching heat, the terrific pace were conditions that only Gum-Dipped Cords and scientifically compounded treads could subdue.The tough, wear-resisting tread and the heatdefying gum-dipped carcass of Firestone Cords reigned supreme, just as they have long done in the daily service of millions of car owners.Gum-dipping—insulating each cord in rubber
—is the Firestone method of protecting tires from heat. This process is the development of an organization of specialists—whose sole purpose is to build constantly better tires.This triumph supplies additional evidence of Firestone's ability to set new standards of tire building year by year.Like the winning driver you, too, can trust these powerful tires to give you the utmost in tire performance. If you're not using them, equip all 'round with Firestone Gum-Dipped Cords—and set new standards of comfort, safety and economical mileage.

Mme. Nellie Melba, once a metropolitan opera star, is to seek a seat in England's Parliament, according to news dispatches. She is one of the few women entitled, by the British King's decree, to use the prefix "Dame," which is the feminine form of "Sir," denoting knighthood.

Paul J. Skewes, Yankee gob, stationed on a warship in Piraeus, the harbor of Athens, obtained permission to go through grounds of the King's palace on a sight-seeing tour. Later this young man revealed himself as King George of Greece.

Girls Who Drop Things

By CLARA MORRIS

SWEET Will Shakespeare speak of "a snapper-up of unconsidered trifles." But we are more annoyed by the feminine dropper of unconsidered trifles. Will someone take the floor and explain the reason of this feminine dropper of trifles?

You must know this woman well. She is ever fond of social functions and her habit of shedding the small accessories of her toilette keeps her well in the limelight to her great content. But alas, for the men whom—like a wicked fairy—she changes into jumping jacks!

The American cavalier is horseman or escort, pure and simple, and as such meets all his demands. But the woman does not live who can turn an American man into the cavalier of the continental type.

"The Perpetual Moller"

This sort of semi-sentimental retriever would be precious beyond rubies to our droppers of unconsidered trifles—such as a wisp of lace handkerchief, a glove, a flower, a ring, a knot of ribbon, a side-comb, a card, another card, a fan, a tiny purse, a puff—anything that's detachable. If her ladies are exceptionally long and curved, she will even drop her eyes! Though in such a case, she will very, very slowly raise them herself with fine effect.

Masculine courtesy transforms men into her jumping jacks—or worse—a gentleman of full 200 pounds, who, when trusted up in evening clothes, attempts on all fours to retrieve some infernal, rolling thing from beneath a sofa.

His short legs, massive body and broad back will look so wonderfully like a rear view of a hippopotamus, there will scarcely be a dry eye in the room.

Nothing can be anchored to the woman who sheds things seemingly for the pleasure of seeing men in her service. This dropper of unconsidered trifles is well known to the stage, too. Years ago I named one I knew, "the perpetual moller," because her hairpins fell the year round. Her pin and needle bill must have been startling, judging by the trail they left after her. False curls frequently fell to the stage from her rattlesnake—to the joy of the gallery and the rage of the stage manager.

The old Cleveland company had a moller unsurpassable in degree or amount of her shedding, and one night she calmly left a rose-colored garter lying on the stage close to the footlights. The manager warned her that the next time she shed an intimate garment before an audience, she would receive what she seemed to be working for, instant dismissal. She—got it!

Can You Explain?

I, for various reasons, honestly believe that the great prototype of these mollers, shredders of droppers, is to be found in that very merry dancing, singing, drinking, laughing, milky-skinned, curly red-haired Nell Gwynne. Of her 'twas said that "had she a tinker in her train he could not so soldier her small trinkets to her, that her link-men would not swipe 'em from her chain, or pages pinch 'em in the King's closet." Said quotation showing the slang of thieves has changed little between 1665 and 1923.

But to return to our mutton—will someone explain the "dropper of unconsidered trifles?"

Does she take malicious pleasure in this enforced service from her polite retrievers?

Perhaps her inconsequence as a dropper may be typical of her attitude toward life—leaving someone else to pick up after her mentally and morally, as well as physically, quiescent?

You have the eye of the speaker, also all our ears. What do you think?

Mother Bear's Favorite

By Thornton W. Burgess.

Favoritism paces the way
For trouble in some future day.

—Old Mother Nature.

A MOTHER who has several children should never, never have a favorite. Of course not. It isn't fair to the other children. But it happens very often. Yes, sir, it happens very often. It was so with Mother Bear. She wouldn't have admitted it any more than any other mother would have done such a thing. Nevertheless, it was so. Very likely she didn't know it. She would have said that it was no such thing. She would have said that she treated all her children just alike.

But she didn't. You remember that one of the triplets was a little smaller than the other two. Perhaps that is why Mother Bear from the very beginning took special care of her. Always she was the first one to be fed. Always she was the first one Mother Bear gave attention to after having left them alone. If she whimpered or cried Mother Bear always fussed over her, whereas the other two sometimes were allowed to keep on crying or were sharply told to stop it.

When she led the triplets out into the Green Forest to see a little of the Great World it was on the littlest Bear that Mother Bear always kept a watchful eye. If the littlest Bear grew tired Mother Bear would stop until she was rested. She wouldn't always do this for the other little Bears when they complained of being tired. Yes, the littlest Bear was Mother Bear's favorite. There was no doubt about it. As I said before, it may have been because she was the littlest Bear, so Mother Bear felt that she needed special care.

Of course, when they were very little the littlest Bear's brother and sister didn't notice it. But when they grew big enough to go out with Mother Bear and to romp and play and get into mischief, as all healthy little Bears will do, they did notice it. They noticed that, no matter how rough they were with each other, Mother Bear never interfered. But the moment they were rough with the littlest Bear Mother Bear interfered. They noticed that the littlest Bear did just about as she pleased, with no more than a warning now and then from Mother Bear, while they

Yes, the little Bear was Mother Bear's favorite. There was no doubt about it.

Mother Bear found something good for little Bears to eat. It was the littlest Bear who was given the best. They couldn't help noticing these things.

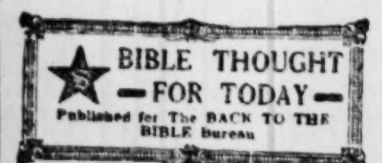

"It isn't fair," grumbled Brother. "She gets all the good things before we have a chance," whined Sister.

"Mother Bear makes a regular baby of her," continued Brother.

"Mother Bear loves her more than she does us," declared Sister.

But both little Bears took care not to let Mother Bear hear them say these things and, in spite of feeling as they did that the littlest Bear was a favorite, they were very good to her. Probably it was because they felt that they were bigger and stronger, and so ought to look out for their little sister.

LIFE AND GOOD DAYS:—He that will live life, and see good days, let him refrain his tongue from evil, and his lips that they speak no guile.—1 Peter 3:10.

THINK IN BIG TERMS

By Wm. A. McKeever

BOY AND GIRL, why not think in big dimensions instead of little ones? So long as your mind dwells habitually on trivial matters you will be petty in your daily conduct, and small in your conceptions of life.

It is the dreamer who later becomes the doer, whom we must finally depend upon to lead society to higher achievements.

Humankind is never satisfied. Some mind is ever active and restless. Some one right here among us is always scheming and dreaming of better things to come. There are always one hundred ways to start something worth while.

Parents are still having a hard time managing their children. Can you not contribute an idea toward the solution of this troublesome problem? Youths are still inclined to fool with loaded dice and to believe that there is to be found a short, easy way of getting rich.

During recent years thousands of tons of food produce from the farm have rotted and wasted because of the high cost of transportation. You could become a benefactor of your age by solving some angle of this perplexing problem.

Then, there is every incentive for dreaming on a big scale of individual accomplishments in the growth of your character.

Take the matter of diligence for example. For you to acquire the habit of working at your appointed task with zeal and energy, this enthusiasm will push you over many a difficulty.

Again, there is the improving of your spare time—studying at evening, reading good books, associating with high-minded people.

Finally, there is the valuable purpose of seeking genuine inspiration from every possible source—from the voice of Spring coming out of the awakening life of the earth, from the good deeds of others whom you may notice, from attendance at church.

Many young men and women are dreaming and dwelling. Many are shivering, in mind and soul. Are you content to be so little, so puny, my boy and girl. No! Then arouse yourself and go after something big.

WORDS OF WISE MEN

Life is a long lesson in humility. All that philosophy can teach is not to be stubborn or sullen under misfortune.

Man is clogged with what is too familiar to him.

Faults of ignorance are excusable only where the ignorance itself is so.

He is the freeman whom the truth makes free.

Everybody's companion is nobody's friend.

A gentle hand may lead the elephant with a hair.

Anger may make dull men witty, but it keeps them poor.

Hope is a good breakfast, but it is a bad supper.

Be so true to yourself that you cannot be false to others.

A wise man will make more opportunities than he finds.

Nature is more powerful than education—time will develop everything.

Life is not so short but that there is always room for courtesy.

The abuse of a thing is no argument for its discontinuance.

Nothing is heavy to a man which necessity brings.

Children like tender osiers take the bow. And as they first are fashioned always grow.

The example of good men is visible philosophy.

He knows the water best who has waded through it.

If a little knowledge is dangerous, where is the man who has so much as to be out of danger?

Confidence placed in another often compels confidence in return.

PLASTER SAINTS

By Frederic Arnold Kummer

CHAPTER III. (Continued)

Douglas threw himself into a chair, for the moment quite stunned. Having lost his position, been evicted from his apartment, and forbidden to call upon the girl he loved, all within the space of two hours, he felt that the world had turned against him. It was with a feeling of apathy that he responded to the insistent ringing of his telephone bell.

The cheery voice of Oliver Blair sounded in his ears.

"Well, well, old fellow," it said. "How goes it, today? Your voice sounds a bit weak. Anything wrong?"

Douglas, ignoring the question, asserted that he felt quite himself. He was not one to annoy other people with his troubles.

"What are you doing?" Blair went on.

"Nothing much. Just getting ready for dinner."

"How would you like to run up and dine with me—just a quiet bite for the two of us. There's something I want to talk over with you."

Douglas welcomed the suggestion. His friendship for the older man was of long standing; he had not infrequently, in the past, sought his advice in matters of business, and the present seemed an excellent opportunity to repeat the operation.

Mr. Kenyon did not disguise from himself the unpleasant truth that he was in a very bad fix. The manner in his dismissal from his recent position—for dismissal it was, in spite of his technical resignation—would, he knew, render it exceedingly difficult for him to obtain a similar position with any other financial house in town. "Why had he left the Continental?" would be the first question asked, and however he might answer it, the truth was bound to come out. His career was wrecked. The future seemed for the moment extremely dismal.

"I'll be with you inside of an hour," he told Blair. "I have something I want to talk to you about, too. See you later." Then he hung up the receiver and began to dress.

CHAPTER IV.

"A Friend in Need."

MR. OLIVER BLAIR, who had inherited a considerable fortune from his mother, proceeded thereafter to disappoint all expectations by increasing it tenfold, yet he seemed never to be discontented with anything in particular. It is true that his name was frequently in the public eye, as a collector of rare paintings, a promoter of grand opera, a breeder of fast horses, and a patron of the arts in general, but his operations in the stock market, while they were both large and frequent, were not so well advertised. Hence Mr. Blair, at fifty, was known to his intimates as a delightful man of the world, a bon vivant of the highest type, while by the public at large he was considered an idler, a fop, and because of his attentions to many women, something of a satyr. The opinion of the world, however, concerned Mr. Blair very little. His own affairs kept him quite busy. His theory, in life, was that one should live, in all directions, to the full extent of one's abilities, and with the development of this theory he allowed no one to interfere.

His studio apartment on the upper East Side was one of the show places of New York; its splendid rooms, filled with rare antiques, had been the subject of more than one article in the architectural magazines. It comprised the two upper floors and the roof and had been especially designed to meet his wishes—an arrangement not difficult, since Mr. Blair was himself the owner of the building. The other studios in it were occupied by his artistic, literary and musical friends. Mr. Blair spent only his winters in town; in the summer he was to be found at The Wilderness, his beautiful home on Long Island. He was a bachelor solely from choice; the mothers of eligible daughters had not decided that he was a satyr until all efforts to entrap him, matrimonially speaking, had ended in failure. With men he was immensely popular; many women, too, adored him, but they were not the mothers of marriageable daughters.

When Douglas arrived at the studio, Mr. Blair was sitting in his den, looking at a number of photographs. He greeted his guest with his usual brilliant smile and handed him several of the pictures.

"What do you think of those?" he asked. "Some of Holton's work marvelous!"

Douglas took the photographs, supposing them to be views of the rare works of art that Mr. Blair was always pursuing with such avidity. To his surprise he saw only groups of crippled children, some wearing metal braces, some without. He looked at Blair in astonishment.

"I don't understand," he said. "Who's Holton?"

"Oh, I thought you knew. Holton's one of the greatest orthopedic surgeons in the country. A wizard with infantile paralysis and the like. He's in charge at place near Huntington."

"What place?" Douglas asked. Blair tossed the photographs into a drawer.

"A hospital I'm backing out there. Holton has a lot of new ideas. No money. I happened to have a piece of property on the island, old house on it—too big for anybody to live in nowadays. So we decided it would be a great place for crippled children. We've about thirty of them down there now. Holton's got some of them so that they can walk as well as you or I. I must take you down some time. Interesting chap, Holton. You'd like him." He closed the drawer and dismissed the subject of the hospital as though it were of minor importance. "Well, from what I hear, somebody at my little party last night has been doing a lot of talking."

"Yes," Douglas agreed, with a grin. "I wonder who it was."

"Hamill, I'm afraid. He's a very old friend of mine, but he has an unfortunate wife. He's afraid of her. I hope nothing has happened, to cause you any trouble. I'd feel terribly guilty. That's what I wanted to see you about."

"How did you know that anybody had been talking?" Douglas asked. "It's very simple. A woman I know—a married woman, who happens to be a friend of the Hamills, called me up this afternoon and tried to poke some fun at me about the poker game. I asked her how she came to know about it, but she wouldn't tell me. But, as I say, she runs about with Mrs. Hamill, so I naturally put two and two together. It's not the sort of thing I like to have said about my guests, and it's worse for you because you won. It was Hamill who suggested the game, too. I wasn't even in the room at the time; someone had called me on the phone. I certainly had nothing of the sort in mind when I got those girls to help entertain us. Is there any reason you why such a story should cause you embarrassment? Luckily you're not married. What did you do with the girl anyway?"

In spite of his misfortunes Douglas laughed.

"I took her home," he said. "Some idiotic idea of saving her the long trip uptown. Gave her my bed, and all that. I'm afraid I wasn't quite myself when I left."

"That's another thing that worried me," Blair said gravely. "You know I never drink myself. No question of super-morality involved. Purely hygienic. It upsets my digestion. But I assume that a man of your age knows what he's about."

"I can't account for it," said Douglas rather shamefacedly. "I never did drink much, but I supposed I could get away with a few glasses of champagne and a liqueur or two without making a fool of myself."

"You certainly didn't make a fool of yourself, my boy," Blair observed kindly. "I noticed nothing out of the way except that you were unusually quiet. That brandy I served after dinner is nearly a 100 years old, and rather strong, they tell me. But why worry about it now. The thing will be forgotten in a few days, and that will be the end of it. I just wanted to be sure that you hadn't become involved in any way with that girl."

Douglas shook his head. He hesitated to tell Blair what had occurred, and yet he knew that unless he did so, he could not well ask his advice in a business way regarding his future.

"I'm not worrying about the girl," he said. "In fact, I didn't even know she was until this morning. She seemed a very decent sort—anxious not to cause me any trouble, and all that. But the trouble came anyway. Old Carrington heard about the party."

"Carrington? You mean Joshua Carrington? What's he got to do with it?"

"A lot. In the first place, he requested my resignation as Assistant Treasurer of the Continental Trust Company."

"Not!" Blair's expression showed his distress. "I'm so sorry. The confounded old hypocrite!"

"Also, he has fixed things so that I can't see his granddaughter, Jean Bronson, any more. That hit me hard."

"Jean Bronson? You don't mean to tell me you are in love with her?" He saw Douglas nod. "That's terrible—terrible! How can I ever forgive myself?"

"I don't see that it's your fault in any way. I'd never have told you if I'd thought you'd assume that."

"But surely when you tell her the truth she will understand. She'd never judge you without giving you a hearing."

"I don't know," I called up—wanted to see her tonight—told her exactly what happened—but her mother wouldn't allow it. I'm persona non grata with the family from now on. You know what the Carringtons are."

"That's certainly so," replied Blair, with a snort of anger. "Old Joshua had his fling thirty years ago. Now he's on his last legs he's the bitterest reformer in town. I know his breed. He's made a fortune in sugar and doped soft drinks, glucose candy and the like, and he thinks a bottle of sound wine spells eternal damnation. Also it hurts his business. I'd like to break the old rascal if I could. As for his granddaughter, Miss Bronson, I don't doubt she's a very charming girl, but if she throws you down without giving you a chance to clear yourself, you're well rid of her. Pardon my plain speaking, but I mean it for your good."

"I haven't said she won't give me a chance," explained Douglas. "Jean is a wonderful girl. But naturally she's bound to listen to her mother. Mrs. Bronson is a religious fanatic. She'd turn the girl out of doors rather than let her marry a man she thought was not everything he should be. And of course, in spite of the fact that I haven't anything on my conscience, so far as last night is concerned, I don't expect anybody to believe me."

"Why not? I do. And the girl herself. She'd testify to the truth."

"They certainly wouldn't believe her," said Douglas, with a mirthless laugh. "Mrs. Bronson would think we'd framed the thing up, of course."

"A lot. In the first place, he requested my resignation as Assistant Treasurer of the Continental Trust Company."

How to Avoid the Danger of Cancer of the Stomach

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

TODAY I want to tell you about a condition which becomes serious if not given early attention. Like all other forms of malignant disease, it is unpleasant to talk about. I refer to cancer of the stomach.

It will be a great thing for this world when the cause of cancer is discovered. We know little about it at present, but fortunately there are great laboratories and devoted laboratory experts working on cancer. Some day we will wake up to read in the paper that the problem has been solved.

Until Pasteur's epoch-making discovery, there were many horrible deaths from hydrophobia. Until the successful development of anti-toxins there were endless numbers of deaths from diphtheria. Small-pox has lost its horror since vaccination became universal.

The time will come when cancer will be swept away by the discovery of the cause and the capture of the agent. That will be a great day in the world!

There are a few rules which are worth while to bear in mind.

Anything which lowers the bodily resistance creates a condition favorable to the onset and ravages of disease.

The blood must circulate freely. The organs of elimination must function perfectly, carrying away the poisonous wastes of the body. The lungs must be filled day and night by life-giving oxygen. There must be no centers of pus development. No form of chronic irritation or interference with local circulation should be permitted to exist.

Living a normal, temperate, well-directed life will go far toward making cancer and all the other diseases unlikely to occur. Such a life from earliest childhood will make less common the cases of cancer of the stomach which now appear between the ages of 40 and 60.

The statistics gathered by the great surgeons indicate that at least three-quarters of the cases of cancer of the stomach can be traced back to neglected ulcers of that organ.

Loss of appetite, frequent vomiting and progressive loss of weight are suspicious symptoms. Perhaps the victim has been very well before and suddenly develops the digestive trouble.

No fish is stranger than the little sea-horse. It has a body encased in rings of bony mail, a horse-shaped head set at right angles, and a prehensile tail to grasp seaweed in which it hides. It always floats with its queer head up and erect. Another peculiar thing about the sea-horse is that the male fish carries the eggs in a pouch situated under his tail until the young are hatched and large enough to look out for themselves.

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

THE PUZZLE

THE ways of science are so queer they fill my mind with wonder, and more I marvel, year by year, and murmur, "How in thunder?"

Each day some new device comes out to make our living easy; electric pads to cure the gout and fans to keep things breezy. The housewife need not stay at home while cooking meals by fireless, and friends in Yucatan or Nome send word each day by wireless. The fireside nook is now taboo, while out by field and river the tourists block up every view with limousine and flivver. And over all the airships sail, up in the ether floating; yes, every boy that's out or jail is driving or he's boating. In many more directions, too, the scientists have flourished; their X-rays look us through and through to see how we are nourished. And so I wonder as I say: "How did our grandfathers do it? And ladies of an early day, how could the dears pull through it? How did my mother make those pies just as the notion

Helps for the Mother

A MOTHER can do much in developing the literary taste of her children. If she carefully and properly supervises the reading, a taste for good literature has been established and there is little danger of "trashy" or "dime" novels later holding any interest for a boy or girl.

Nature stories written in fascinating style are among children's publications and will interest the average child quite as much as a plain story. The bird and animal stories are wonderful to most children. The mother who really cares will take the time to read these stories to her young children, and she will often make delightful family trips to the Zoo, where she will apply the stories read as they view the various birds and animals. The children will eagerly recall the habits and characteristics of each specimen.

If mothers will provide outdoor toys for their children they will have no difficulty in keeping them out in the air throughout the day. Allow them to have only one toy at a time, and alternate these so as to give the child a due amount of exercise and rest.

Greater durability! —longer wear!

in MMR's Red Seal Hair Net

TO create a finer hair net—for many years this had been the ambition of MMR, designer of women's fashion accessories.

To him a finer net meant all the delicacy and invisibility a hair net must have to give the touch perfect to lovely hair—but it meant something more. Greater strength, longer wear!

And this is exactly what he offers, now, in MMR's Red Seal hair net. Dainty, invisible as you could wish, yet with a new strength, a longer wearing life!

How, you wonder, does MMR attain this new hair net quality? If you will examine closely one of these nets, you will see.

First, notice the length of the single hairs. Every one is selected for its unbroken length. Thus the very foundation of the net is strong!

Then observe the mesh. How uniform it is, how accurately spaced! No irregularities here to weaken and give way with wear. Every knot, too, is tied so firmly that it can never slip or loosen.

Perfectly matched in color are the hairs, to blend in with your own, and the texture is soft and fine. Every net is shaped according to MMR's correct design, not too large, not too small.

Right here in these little details of making, MMR displays his finer craftsmanship! For it is simply the infinite care in these very things which makes MMR's hair net a new value in the longer wear it offers you.

Delicately beautiful, softly lustrous, MMR's Red Seal hair net is one to satisfy the most fastidious taste—and to please with the saving it affords.

Until you have tried this new moist coconut you will never know how good coconut pie can be

A new process for putting up coconut has been discovered. You no longer have to get it in the dried form. This new method of packing brings it to you as fresh, juicy and full-flavored as if just out of a newly-opened nut.

The process was worked out by the largest coconut manufacturer in the world to meet the ever-increasing demand for coconut at its best.

Ever since coconuts were first brought to America from the West Indies, the taste for coconut has been growing. In the Southern cities where it could be got in its fresh state, perhaps sixty per cent of the dessert recipes of every housewife are coconut dishes. And all over the country, where it is generally known only in its dried form, it is increasing in popularity.

For years the greatest coconut experts have been working to find a way of packing it so that everybody everywhere could have it as moist and tender as the fresh-grated coconut the Southern housewives buy in the market.

Baker's Coconut

*To know why your cake grows stale overnight when made with ordinary dry coconut—make this simple test: Balance any dry shredded coconut with an equal quantity of Baker's Coconut, Southern Style, on small hand scales. Place a dish of water under the scale pans. The pan containing the dry coconut will gradually sink lower and lower as it absorbs the moisture. It will rob your cake of moisture in the same way. Baker's Coconut, packed moist in its own juices, never steals moisture from your cake.

HONOR WHERE HONOR WAS DUE.

A CERTAIN distinguished English actor whom we will call Walker-Smith plays a persistent but terrible game of golf. During a visit to this country he visited the links of a country club in Westchester County, New York State.

After an especially miserable showing one morning, he flung down his niblick in disgust.

"Caddy," he said, addressing the youth who stood alongside, "that was awful, wasn't it?"

"Pretty bad, sir."

"I'll have to confess that I am the worst golfer in the world," continued the actor.

"Oh, I wouldn't say that, sir," purred the caddy, soothingly.

"Did you ever see a worse player than I am?"

"No, sir, I never did," confessed the boy truthfully; "but some of the other boys was tellin' me yistiddy about a gentleman that must be a worse player than what you are. They said his name was Walker-Smith."
